By CASSIA BURNS
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Last Friday, May 10, Mike Burns was named the 2019 Wilmington Good Guy at the 51st annual Good Guy Dinner. Burns was honored at the dinner with several accolades, as well as a "roast." Burns is a member of several local organizations, as well as an active volunteer. Notably, his is an active member of the Rotary Club, where he was formerly the President. He is responsible for organizing the Rotary Club's annual Ice Bucket Challenge, which benefits ALS research and the Angel Fund.

He has also been a member of the Wilmington Recreation Commission, where past notable events include portraying Santa Claus at community events over the years. Any profits he made were donated to charity.

Burns also serves on the Wilmington Community Television (WCTV) Board of Directors. He has hosted numerous events for the channel, such as Wilmington's 275th anniversary Parade, and Fun on the Fourth festivities on Independence Day.

Also, Burns was the primary person responsible for the #1978/6 lawn signs around town, intended to bring awareness to the extent of the current drug and alcohol problem within the local and state communities. These lawn signs represent the number of fatal drug overdoses in Massachusetts from the year 2017 (1978), and the number of fatal drug overdoses first responders attended to in Wilmington (6).

20 former Good Guys were in attendance at the dinner, as well as many of Burns' family and friends. The Good Guy Committee's award was presented to Burns by his predecessor, 2018 Good Guy Dianna DiGregorio.

Also among those in attendance at the dinner were State Representative Dave Robertson, and State Senator Bruce Tarr. Both Robertson and Tarr spoke high-

Ledges at North Woburn near Wilmington line

City of Woburn demands halt of sale of materials

By PATRICK BLAIS

WOBURN — A Connecticut-based construction company will contest a cease-and-desist order issued by city officials last week that mandates the immediate halt of crushed rock and other aggregate materials sales from the controversial Ledges at Woburn site in North Woburn.

On Thursday afternoon, Building Commissioner Thomas Quinn ruled Woburn 38 Development LLC and Acton-based excavation contractor Onyx Corporation were violating at least five clauses of Woburn's Zoning Code by arranging for the direct sale of processed rock from the sprawling nine-acre construction zone at 1042 Main St.

"As soon as we were notified the contractor was selling aggregate material on that site, we took swift action," said Mayor Scott Galvin, who Friday morning assured residents that the city will do what's necessary to ensure Quinn's order is enforced.

The parcel, which sits perched over Route 38 by the Altavesta Elementary School and the Wilmington line, has been crawling with construction workers and excavation equipment in recent months as demolition contractors blast away at the ledge-riddled terrain.

Ordering the landowner to immediately cease-and-desist all sales operations, Quinn is threatening to levy fines of up to $1,500 for each day the alleged unlawful activity continues.

According to Galvin, who met with Quinn in City Hall on Thursday before the order was hand-delivered to construction managers at 1042 Main St., the enforcement action stemmed from neighborhood complaints about advertisements posted directly to Onyx Corporation's website and Facebook page.

Galvin characterized those arrangements as blatant violations of both local zoning ordinances and a comprehensive permit issued under protest last year for the wildly unpopular 168-unit housing development.

"They were inviting contractors to come to the site and pick it up. That is not allowed, and we're going to make sure the contractor tows the line," the mayor vowed during a phone interview this morning.

As part of his cease-and-desist order, Quinn opined Onyx Corporation cannot treat the construction zone as a retail business operation. Pointing out the parcel sits within a mixed single and two-family housing district, the building commissioner contends the proposed sale of processed ledge violates the following R1/R2 use restrictions:

- Prohibitions on both retail and business service establishments, as well as service uses in connection to those operations;
- Prohibitions on the outside storage of new or used building materials;
- And a blanket citywide ban on quarry operations.

Disputing the validity of Quinn's order on Friday, Concord attorney Paul Hav-

WILMINGTON — The Board of Selectmen has unanimously elected Greg Bendel as chairman for the coming year. Bendel was nominated by incumbent Chairman Kevin Cairra. Bendel and Cairra both won reelection to the board in last month's town elections.

Traditionally, the board reorganizes annually after Town Meeting and elections have concluded.

Cairra thanked the board for his time serving as "It has been an honor and a privilege to serve as chairman for the past year," Cairra said. "I want to thank my colleagues for allowing me to serve the town in this position."

Bendel expressed gratitude toward the board for being given the role.

"Thank you Mr. Cairra... I appreciate your service for the past year," said Bendel. "I appreciate my colleague's vote of confidence and I promise to do the best I can for the residents and for my colleagues up here."

It's Your Money

by Todd Brisbois

IRS SAYS: IF YOU GOT A BIG REFUND, DO A "PAYCHECK CHECKUP"

After filing tax returns, many people put taxes far out of their mind. However, taxpayers who received a large tax refund this year should think about taxes again—and the sooner the better. The IRS urges these taxpayers to visit the Withholding Calculator on IRS.gov and do a "paycheck checkup." Doing so will help them make sure their employers are withholding the correct amount of taxes from their paychecks.

Most taxpayers receive refunds averaging around $2,800. Taxpayers who receive large refunds could receive more of their money throughout the rest of this year, rather than waiting until they file their tax return the following year.

The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act was passed last year, and it included many tax law changes. Taxpayers who calculate their tax payments throughout the year in order to receive a refund at tax time should check to see how the new tax law affects them. A "paycheck checkup" can help taxpayers apply the new law changes to their situation. Following are some of the changes that affect taxpayers who received a refund this year, but also many other people:

- The law reduced tax rates and changed tax brackets.
- The standard deduction nearly doubled. The new rules raise the standard deduction to $24,000 for joint filers and $12,000 for singles for 2018. Many taxpayers who previously itemized their deductions will find the standard deduction is now of bigger benefit.
- The law removed personal exemptions.
- The child tax credit is bigger and the phaseout amount is higher.
- The law added a new tax credit for dependents who can't be claimed for the child tax credit.
- The law limited or discontinued certain deductions.

History:

Wilmington's ancient volcano (don't worry, it won't erupt ever again)

By CAPT.
LARZ NEILSON

Founder of the Town Crier

Few people who drive to Woburn by way of Main Street realize, when they near the Woburn - Wilmington line, that they are driving through an ancient volcano.

Alongside the road is a cliff of basaltic rock. On top, where it may be seen in springtime, is a slight depression, which fills with water in the spring rains. This is the throat of an ancient volcano, up which was thrown hundreds of thousands of tons of molten lava, all of this having been hundreds of millions years ago.

There is no danger that the old volcano will ever erupt. It can be recognized for what it is only by persons trained in geology.

The history of the land which is now Wilmington began about 500 million years ago when what is now New England emerged from the ancient seas. Beneath the land which emerged, there was hot molten material known as magma, which kept trying to force its way to the surface. It would explore and find cracks, and then cool into enormous masses of igneous rock — rock which we today call granite.

The Quincy granites were formed at this time, as were granites all over New England. The type and grade of granite depended entirely on how close to the earth's surface the molten magmas were able to get. If the magma was close to the surface, it cooled rapidly and formed a fine granite. If it did not get too close, it took longer to cool, and became coarse granite.

In the period of which we are writing, there was no Boston Harbor. It was yet to be made by the sinking of the Boston Basin, but it was as a direct result of that sinking that the volcanoes of Eastern Massachusetts were formed volcanoes in what is now Woburn, Winchester, Reading and Wilmington.

After the granites of which we have spoken had been formed there was a new geologic era in what is now the Boston suburbs, one in which the pudding stones of Roxbury were formed. The seas had again covered the land. Slates were formed in some places, from clays that were deposited on the bottom of that sea. In Wilmington, the soils that were deposited became schist, although not much of it exists today. That which does can mostly be found in South Wilmington from Wood Hill, over by the Burlington line, to Suncrest Acres, off West Street.

Schist is a soft stone which breaks easily into layers, an important feature, for it was this tendency together with others which led to the bankruptcy of a Nevada firm which tried to drill through the rocks of Wilmington's volcano.

The hard coals of eastern Pennsylvania and the soft coals of western Pennsylvania and other regions were laid down during this same period, in which the pudding stones and schists were laid down in New England. Hence, the period is known as the Carboniferous Period.

When Boston sank

All of what today is Boston Harbor and the nearby cities once sank for thousands of feet, as the result of the weights of rocks in the area. The hole which resulted (and which has since nearly filled) can easily be marked off, in such places as Malden, Arlington and the Blue Hills.

The sinking of the land in and near Boston was a gradual process which took thousands of years. There was great stress and strain in the nearby hills. Cracks and curves appeared in the rocks.

Through these cracks, the molten rock beneath found a way to escape to the surface, and dozens of volcanoes appeared around Boston.

In the vicinity of Woburn, there were dozens of volcanoes, all pouring thousands of tons of lava and basalt upon the surface of the earth. Three volcanoes surround what is now Woburn Center. Horn Pond Mountain, now the reservoir of the City of Woburn, was a volcano. Today's pond is in the old volcano mouth. The hill known as Blueberry Hill, on the Woburn - Winchester line, was a volcano. In the early to mid 1900's, a quarry there provided hundreds of thousands of tons of rock for road building and railroads in eastern Massachusetts.

The northernmost of these volcanoes was just north of the Woburn - Wilmington line, today called Cook's Hill.

It is a mere shadow of its former self, for the ice ages, which began about one million years ago, ground down what had been an imposing mountain into a small hill but the lava rock, the basalt, and the throat of the volcano can still be seen.

The most interesting point to be seen without climbing the hill is the cut where Route 38 runs through the hill. This cut was done about 1927, when Main Street was relocated. Previously, the road ran around the hill and around a pond known as Squaw Pond, which was filled in at that time.

The name Squaw Pond arose from the accidental killing of an Indian woman there in 1705, which resulted in the Harnden massacre but that is another story.

The contracting firm which took the job of cutting through Cook's Hill and building the new road went bankrupt because of the nature of the rock left by the volcano. Because the hill is a mixture of granite, schist and basalt, the drills refused to go into the hard rock and instead bent and turned into the softer schist. Unable to maintain its drills and unable to finish the job, the company went bankrupt.

Atop the hill for many years, there was a stone chapel, built by a Greek - American. He had built it with the intention of it becoming an Orthodox Church. But it was abandoned, and during Prohibition it became a hang-out for bootleggers.

Tewksbury woman receives regional award

ARLINGTON, VA — The national, non-profit School Nutrition Association (SNA) has named Sandra Hillson of Tewksbury from Lincoln School in Lincoln, the Northeast Regional Manager of the Year. Considered the highest honor a school nutrition manager can earn, the award recognizes a cafeteria manager who has demonstrated dedication and ingenuity to improve his or her school meal program.

A seasoned cafeteria manager, Hillson takes great pride in her staff's ability to prepare healthy and appetizing school meals from scratch. Working in a small one-oven kitchen, Hillson excels in time management and menu preparation and is known for collaborating with staff to develop new recipes and present healthy food options in a way that students will be encouraged to try.

She utilizes foods grown seasonally in school gardens and locally sourced produce from area farms as part of Lincoln School District's Farm to School program. Hillson was instrumental in organizing a recent collaboration with local apple and peach growers.

Hillson is well versed in catering to specific dietary restrictions, even working with students who might have aversions to certain appearances or food textures. She and her staff have developed special menus to accommodate students with allergies, cultural dietary restrictions and more to ensure all students feel welcome in her cafeteria.

School nutrition professional development and education is important to Hillson, who is Serve Safe certified, CPR certified and Allergen Aware certified. She attends several professional development presentations and trainings throughout the year and encourages her staff to become SNA members and SNA certified.

She wants staff to take pride in their work and have others recognize their professionalism as well. Hillson takes the time to train staff on daily paperwork and production sheets so they are aware of the work done behind-the-scenes as well as their own responsibilities. She ensures that all staff complete the district's annual mandated training and steps in during training days so that her staff can attend Epi-Pen, Heimlich maneuver, fire safety and school lockdown training.

"Sandra Hillson's dedication to her students' safety, health and satisfaction is an example to all in the school nutrition field," said SNA President Gay Anderson, SNS. "She goes above and beyond her duties, advocating for children's health and constantly seeking out additional opportunities for professional development."

The Manager of the Year Award is given in honor of Louise Sublette, a leader in school nutrition in her state and in the national School Nutrition Association. During her 43 years in the profession, Sublette worked in many areas of foodservice — public schools, colleges, hospitals and elderly feeding programs.

Sublette dedicated her career to honoring school nutrition professionals and ensuring those who work in school cafeterias have access to professional development opportunities, empowering them to help their school meal programs flourish.

On July 14, 2019, Hillson will be honored during the Red Carpet Awards Ceremony at the School Nutrition Association's 73rd Annual National Conference in St. Louis, MO.

About School Nutrition Association:

The School Nutrition Association (SNA) is a national, non-profit professional organization representing 58,000 school nutrition professionals across the country. Founded in 1946, SNA and its members are dedicated to making healthy school meals and nutrition education available to all students.

Man arrested after crash involving police officer

TEWKSBURY — On May 7, 2019 at approximately 6:46 a.m. a Tewksbury Police Officer, while operating a marked police cruiser, was involved in a head-on crash with a white van on Route 133 near Cooney Road in Tewksbury. Both the officer and the driver of the second vehicle are being treated for non-life threatening injuries at area hospitals. The preliminary investigation indicates that the Tewksbury officer was travelling eastbound on Route 133 when the second vehicle, travelling in the opposite direction, allegedly crossed into the officer's lane of travel striking the police cruiser head-on.

The driver of the van, Jorge Joel Gomez Guzman, 21, of Lawrence, has been charged with negligent operation of a motor vehicle, a marked lanes violation and having an improperly registered vehicle. The driver is currently hospitalized and in police custody at this time. An arraignment has not been scheduled. This crash is being investigated by the Middlesex District Attorney's Office, the Massachusetts State Police Collision and Analysis Reconstruction Section and Tewksbury Police. Additional charges may issue as the investigation continues.

Book Stew Review

'Normal People' by Sally Rooney

By EILEEN MACDOUGALL

The book title is the irony of ironies: why should beautiful, broken, brilliant people ever strive for "normalcy," whatever that is? This story, encompassing four years in the lives of Marianne and Connell of Sligo, Ireland, reflects the interior unwinds of two pairs of brains, hearts, and guts — always in harmony despite being unable to do what they say and say what they mean. Connell, son of a struggling single mother, is smart, popular and athletic. Marianne, shunned by other students, is from a terrible home of wealth and privilege, ignored by her mother and brutalized by her brother. Avoiding public attention in their tiny town and cramped social circle, they establish a secret relationship that enriches and defines them. Their social statuses reverse after high school as they matriculate to Trinity University, where Marianne achieves cachet and Connell is miserably lonely. Through their college years, their lives intertwine and break apart for all the wrong reasons. Yet they are truly dependent on each other for rescue and for succor. This novel is overflowing with tenderness, brutality, and bleak and shining truths, and is truly deserving of all the critical acclaim it has achieved.

ADULTING PROGRAMS: making learning stick

By PAUL ANDREWS

First, a belated Happy Mother's Day to all mothers for the incredible work they do that I think a great number of us take for granted as their day never stops and yet they get it done.

Also, if you were watching the news over the early part of the weekend, a feature carried by the networks highlighted the increasing number of school districts that were initiating "Adulting Programs" in their system for adults to take to handle programs they never received in their K-12 program around such questions as setting up a checking account, understanding how a loan works, methods of saving funds, etc.

While all schools could do more in this area and in fact many communities have programs in adult education that do cover often some of the topics raised, my sense is that the reporter reading the story was trying to make the point that enough is not done as fully as graduates need. Teaching time requires so much today in terms of getting all done well.

Making learning stick

Yes, students do learn in our schools but often have their own way of learning. I was most impressed with a piece in an education publication by Henry Roediger and Peter Brown on "The Importance of Testing as a Learning Strategy."

Some of the highlights of their piece I found very interesting and in fact have used many of the proposals but other methods seem to be more important. They list a series of suggestions AS BEING INEFFECTIVE including: underlining and highlighting important material, reading and rereading, studying only one block of information at a time e.g. fractions and studying for long periods of time (cramming just before an exam). I would add, I did most of these and it worked for me but the authors seem to be the experts. Studying in a "smarter way" some practices that for me are a mix include: self-quizzing, paraphrasing and reflecting on material, spacing short but intense study sessions over time, mixing up topics and subjects studying (sometimes called interleaving) and getting enough sleep. They also give some suggestions to teachers including pre-testing on sample tests on types of questions to be asked, frequent low stakes quizzing with immediate feedback and correction, less lecturing but rather using more challenging questions to students, getting students to working in pairs or small groups to construct their own understanding of new material and having students write to understand.

I really feel that I have used some of these and sure most teachers today are doing the same thing plus some other creative approaches. I often feel that we should do more sharing of these successful techniques among teachers and administrators as we can all learn from each other. I really feel that teaching and learning is so important so the tools to successful transfer of knowledge become the keys to input information to all of us.

Change of pace — community giving

I really do not know about all readers but the letters and requests for donations in our home could fill a large bag every week and am sure for most. One has to decide which charities to give to or rotate them around each year, as they all depend so much on donations made to the organization and or cause. While each week I attempt to make a couple of agencies happy but hold off on some others. For me, I really think local agencies and causes or institutions take priority and almost an automatic in terms of a donations.

The Town Crier area residents are truly incredible in the amount of time and funds they give to so many great causes right here in our region, not to mention the favorite charities that all have in memory of a loved one or an institution that means so much to them. These donations are vital to these organizations so we need to keep on giving as much as possible.

JUST A NOTE: THANKS FOR YOUR COMMENTS and always feel free to e-mail me at andrews@mas-supt.org.

Richard T. Holahan

Served during Korean War

It is with great sadness in our hearts that we announce the passing of Richard T. Holahan who succumbed to a courageous battle with cancer on May 7, 2019.

He passed peacefully with his loving family by his side. Richard was born in Arlington, Massachusetts on Aug. 4, 1932 and grew up in Medford, Massachusetts where he graduated from Medford High School.

He loved playing baseball and excelled at every level of the sport. The Oakland Athletics convinced Richard to sign a contract with them; however, he decided that his true "calling" was to follow in his father's footsteps by serving his country.

Richard entered the Korean War when he was 18 years of age. He stepped on that foreign soil as a boy. He returned home a man and a hero.

After his honorable discharge he worked for Brinks, Incorporated and later decided that his selfless service should continue. Richard joined the Medford Fire Department in 1962 and served with this brotherhood until his retirement in 1992.

Richard was predeceased by his mother Lillian J. Johnson, father George T. Holahan from Medford, Massachusetts and his brother George T. Holahan.

Richard was the beloved husband of Barbara (Edgerly) Holahan of Wilmington, Massachusetts. Father and step-father to daughter, Colleen E. (Dowd) Murphy and husband Dennis from Londerry, New Hampshire, son Richard T. Dowd and wife Gwen from Fairfax, California, daughter Kimberley A. (Dowd) Taulbee and husband Roger from Londonderry, New Hampshire and daughter Kirsten Holahan from Wilmington, Massachusetts.

Richard was also the grandfather and "Papa" to Tanya Lee Taulbee, Zachary Taulbee, Kevin Murphy, Emily Mae Murphy, Paris Dowd, Camden Dowd and Benjamin Frederick Holahan Banks who was his pride and joy, favorite boy and best form of medicine.

Richard also loved his 4-legged companion of 12 years, Sofie (Curly), who passed away on Nov. 18, 2018.

Richard was a loving, dapper, handsome, strong, unselfish, funny, kind and caring son, brother, husband, hero, father, papa and friend.

He enjoyed spending time in Maine with his forever love and beautiful wife Barbara.

He loved woodworking, painting, time in the sun, working in the yard, listening to music and being with his dog.

Rest with peace my beloved father ...

Fly, Fly, Do not Fear,
Don't waste another breath and don't shed another tear ...
Fly, Fly, the moment is right,
Go now and find the light ...
Fly, Fly, to the sky, past the planets to the stars ...
Leave this crazy world of ours ... Escape your sorrow, with no more pain,
Fly again —
Beyond the hands of time, with no more reason, and no more rhyme ... now that your soul is pure and free, Please do not Worry ...

As time goes by we will miss your more — wait for us at heaven's door ...

The sun will rise, the sun will set but it's you I won't forget ...

Love you so very much ...
Your sense of humor and Superman Strength is unsurpassed ...

Our love for you will forever last ... K.H.

TV advertised drugs will soon display costs

By STAFF REPORT

BURLINGTON — The Massachusetts Health & Hospital Association has praised in recent days a plan where TV prescription drug advertising will now contain the cost information as well as other information.

Officials at the MH&HA pointed out this week the U.S. Health & Human Services has released a final rule requiring drug manufacturers to list the expected monthly costs to consumers of the prescription drugs they advertise on TV.

The rule goes into effect in July and applies to all drugs that would cost more than $35 per month for a 30-day supply or typical course of treatment.

The actual text that must be displayed is: "The list price for a [30-day supply of] [typical course of treatment with] [name of prescription drug or biological product] is [insert list price]. If you have health insurance that covers drugs, your cost may be different."

The final rule also describes the way the text must be displayed in the ad to avoid the typical small-font, bad-contrast, hard-to-read disclaimers on many advertisements, noted MH&HA officials.

Area hospitals are all members of the MH&MA to include the Lahey Hospital & Medical Center in Burlington and the Winchester Hospital.

In releasing the rule, HHS wrote, "Up until now, drug companies were required to disclose the major side effects a drug can have — but not the effect that buying the drug could have on your wallet."

IT'S ALL GREEK TO EVERYONE DURING GREEK FOOD FESTIVAL SEASON

By HEATHER BURNS
News Correspondent

ne of the best movies of all time has to be "My Big Fat Greek Wedding." Partly because it is a funny and relatable story of a big family wedding, but also because you get a taste of the passion for life and family that the traditional Greek family invokes.

The Greek culture's passion for life also comes through in their cuisine. A mixture of Mediterranean flavors and "feel good" comfort style cooking has become a favorite food of people around the globe.

Luckily, for Greek food lovers like myself, this is Greek Food Festival season. Greek Food Festivals are held at this time of year partly in observance of the holiday Agios Pnevmatos (also known as Monday of the Holy Spirit or Pentecost).

According to the biblical story, Agios Pnevmatos takes place 50 days after the Resurrection of Christ, when the Holy Spirit descended on the apostles and enabled them to speak in any language to spread the word of God.

This three day Greek celebration changes dates each year depending on when Orthodox Easter falls, but always takes place in late spring, usually May or June. In Greece, it is the second largest holiday of the summer, similar to the United States celebration of Memorial Day Weekend. But in the U.S., the primary reason for springtime Greek festivals is to give members of the Greek community a chance to share and celebrate their heritage with others.

Locally, there are several Greek Food Festivals taking place in the coming month for you to experience.

On May 17 and 18, St. Philip Greek Orthodox Church, located at 500 West Hollis St. in Nashua, NH is hosting their annual Greek Food Festival starting at 11 a.m. until midnight on Friday and Saturday. Experience authentic, homemade Greek food while enjoying Greek music and dancing. Admission is free, and this event will take place rain or shine.

Also on the weekend of May 17, 18 and 19, you can visit the Greek Food Festival at Annunciation Church, located at 457 Oak St. in Brockton. Friday afternoon until midnight is "Gyro Night" (Gyro is a Greek style kebab wrap). There will also be a variety of pastries and live music on hand to enjoy.

On Saturday, from 11 a.m. until midnight, a full Greek menu will be featured, plus a yard sale and live Greek music. Sunday also offers a full Greek menu, yard sale, and D.J. music from noon to 6 p.m. Admission is free, rain or shine.

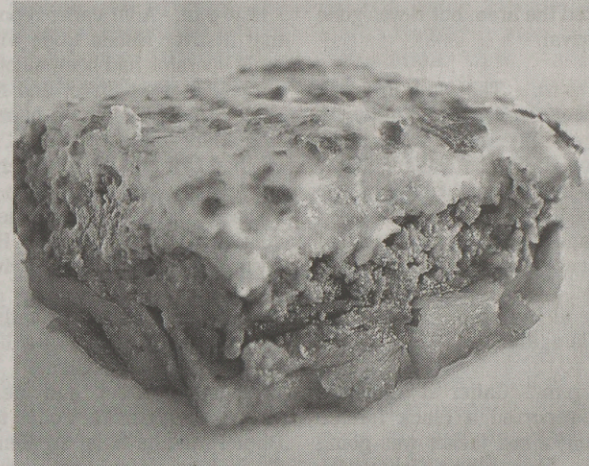

The Transfiguration Greek Orthodox Church, located at 25 Father John Santos Way in Lowell, is hosting Grecian Festival '19 on Friday, May 31, from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Saturday, June 1, from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Enjoy authentic Greek food, guided church tours, and live music. There will also be plenty of kids activities and raffle prizes. Admission and parking are free.

The Annual Greek Festival, hosted by St. Athanasius the Great Greek Orthodox Church, 4 Appleton St. in Arlington, runs four days from May 30 through June 2. Thursday, May 30, features gyros and pastries from 5 to 9 p.m., and a full menu of Greek favorites will be available Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m., and Sunday from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m. Enjoy live Greek music, dancing, Greek wine and beer, church tours and children's activities. Admission is free, rain or shine under the big tent.

The 2019 Woburn Greek Festival is held on June 6 through 9, at the Annunciation Greek Orthodox Church, located at 70 Montvale Ave. in Woburn. The festival kicks off with Gyro Night on Thursday, June 6, from 4 to 10 p.m. A full Greek menu is available Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Enjoy performances of live Greek music and Greek dance troupes. Shop the vendors marketplace while the kids join in one of the many children's activities. Admission is free, and parking and shuttle service is available. To view tweets or posts of this event, use #getyourgreekon and #bringthecommunitytogether.

A word of advice for the Greek food lover... Pace yourself. There are plenty of opportunities this month to enjoy your favorite, authentic Greek dishes. And for the less adventurous eater, attending a local Greek Food Festival is the perfect opportunity to sample something new, and discovery a new found passion for life, love and authentic Greek food!

DEVENS — In recognition of National Drinking Water Week, the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (MassDEP) announced the 61 recipients of the annual Public Water Systems Award during a ceremony held in Devens. Each year, MassDEP honors the state's many dedicated drinking water professionals, while acknowledging certain noteworthy accomplishments that involve excellent water service to the public.

"The Baker-Polito Administration is proud to recognize drinking water providers across the Commonwealth who share the administration's commitment to ensuring that residents have access to safe, clean, healthy drinking water," said Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Kathleen Theoharides. "Through continued efforts, monitoring, and collaboration, the recipients of Public Water Systems awards have demonstrated a high level of commitment to the safety and health of Massachusetts residents, and we thank them for their continued dedication and hard work."

"MassDEP recognizes exceptional performance among our state's many public water supply systems," said MassDEP Commissioner Martin Sabberg. "There are many public water systems that do a great job and we have determined that these systems deserve special recognition and commendation today for their exceptional service to the public."

May 5-11, 2019 is "National Drinking Water Week," a time to recognize the importance of source-water protection, water quality and conservation, as well as the value, importance and fragility of the Commonwealth's water resources. MassDEP works with drinking water utilities to make sure that the water delivered to consumers meets all federal and state standards and is clean and abundant.

The following 48 public water systems in the different categories of non-transient, non-community, small community, consecutive, and medium and large community water systems all have excellent compliance with state and federal drinking water regulations. Not only do they have complete compliance with regulations for calendar year 2018, they also have had no violations in the past five years. These systems have gone beyond compliance by testing for secondary contaminants and by having adequate capacity. Systems that have won for three consecutive years are not eligible, but are issued a letter of commendation.

There are also four operators who will receive awards for their merit; and two schools and 12 other public water systems that will receive awards for water and energy conservation, lead reduction, source protection and special recognition.

Non-transient Non-community Systems are non-residential water systems that serve at least 25 persons over six months or more, such as schools, factories, and office

Water Conservation

- The Water Conservation Award is given to those systems that achieved the following: met the average of 65 RGPCD (residential gallons per capita daily) and 10 percent unaccounted for water usage standards; implemented minimum mandatory water-use restrictions for 2018; provided a web site showing conservation-related information; and, while not required, all four used less water than the previous year.

Distinguished Operator Awards

- Robert Murch - Acton Water District, et al.

Robert Murch is an operator for Drinking Water Services, LLC, a contract operator for a number of small water systems, including Acton Water District, that have had significant water quality or compliance issues. Murch has worked tirelessly to bring them into full compliance, a task that has over the past year included nights and weekends installing emergency disinfection or trouble-shooting treatment systems. Murch prioritizes communication with MassDEP and maintains excellent record-keeping and has been lauded by his clients for his efforts and results.

- Dan DiNicola, Chris MacKay, John Kellett and Mark Riopelle - Lawrence Water Works Operators, Woodard & Curran

These four operators are being recognized for their emergency response efforts on Sept. 13, 2018, when excessive pressure in natural gas lines in the Merrimack Valley caused a series of explosions and fires throughout Lawrence. Communication was lost to all the pump stations for a time, and these specific operators knew it was critical to get to the pump stations to check the water levels and manually operate the pumps if necessary to make sure there was enough water and pressure for firefighters to battle the myriad of fires burning.

Complicating their efforts was the fact that thousands of people were evacuating their homes during rush hour, causing gridlock on streets. These operators faced with this impassable situation parked their trucks and walked/ran to the pump stations. Their efforts to keep the community of Lawrence safe are noted here and greatly appreciated by all.

Regional Recognition Awards

- Sunderland Water District
- The Sunderland water district faces many of the same challenges as other small water systems, including compliance challenges. The Water District has directed their attention to fully comply with Safe Drinking Water Act and other Drinking Water Regulations for several years. The District manages its water use and has significantly reduced its consumption during the last two to three years.

- MCI Norfolk/Cedar Junction, Walpole

This water supplier is being recognized for improvements made to their water quality and quantity. They developed two new sources, which had iron and manganese that needed appropriate treatment. A new treatment plant was built and two new operators were hired. These improvements increased the quantity and quality of water now available to the system. All of these improvements, and many others, have made the MCI Norfolk public water system solid and reliable.

- The Mashpee Water District

The Mashpee water district faced contamination of per- and poly-fluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) compounds in a well due to its proximity to a nearby military base. The system took immediate steps to mitigate the problem: took the well out of service; negotiated agreements with the U.S. Air Force; hired a consultant; and, applied for a MassDEP Drinking Water construction permit.

Currently, the Air Force is constructing a granular activated carbon system to remove the contamination. The condition of the facilities and organization of the records reflect a high level of professionalism and pride taken by the district's employees.

- The Melrose Water Department

The Melrose water system is recognized for having made great strides in removing lead service lines (LSL). Melrose, as a result of exceeding the lead action level in its system during 2017, initiated a LSL removal program and apprised that there were 819 lead service lines. The town was determined to reduce that number to 574. The plan was to remove 58 LSL by October 2018, but they exceeded that goal by successfully removing 72 full, 24 partial, and 32 goosenecks.

Sponsors for this year's awards event include: Barnstable County Water Utilities Association, Mass. Ryan honored with Crown and Shield Award at Assumption College

WORCESTER — On the eve of their May 12 commencement, 16 members of Assumption College's Class of 2019 were honored with the College's prestigious Crown and Shield Award. The Award recognizes students who have distinguished themselves throughout their tenure at the College in the areas of leadership and community service. Award recipients have protected (shield) and furthered (crown) the interests of the student body and Assumption as a whole. Jacqueline Marie Ryan of Wilmington. Ryan graduated ed with a major in Environmental Science with a concentration in Policy, and a minor in Law, Ethics, and Constitutional Studies. Jacqueline's involvement at Assumption varied as she was a participant on SEND trips to Imokalee, FL, and Co-Leader of SEND trip to Georgetown, DE. Ryan was also a ROC Volunteer, an Eco Rep Program Sustainability Intern, Groundhounds Sustainability Vice President where she spearheaded many new initiatives including the college's first farmers market, and a staff writer for Le Provocateur.

One of Jackie's favorite accomplishments at Assumption was being able to lead the Delaware SEND trip over spring break. She absolutely loved working with her fellow classmates and site supervisors at Sussex County Habitat for Humanity. A nominator spoke of Jackie's enthusiasm for working towards environmental justice both on and off campus saying, "Jackie will be greatly missed for her passion and commitment to efforts to improve this campus. I am convinced her actions will continue to inspire those who follow after her." After graduation, Jackie will pursue a job in the environmental science field, related to environmental policy and/or sustainability. "The very essence of leadership is the recognition that one has gifts and talents that can bring to life a vision that can be transformative for individuals, an institution, or society," Assumption College President Francesco C. Cesareo, Ph.D. shared with honorees and their families. "That transformation results from the ability of a leader to inspire, to help people dream of possibilities not yet imagined. Remember that leadership is not about the accumulation of power and wealth or selfish aggrandizement. Rather, it is principally meant for the building up of society by being the advocates, supporters, and defenders of the weak and the little ones against all who oppress them." Crown and Shield recipients are nominated by faculty, staff and administration for their exemplary service and leadership.

"The challenge for you as you prepare to leave Assumption College and enter the next phase in your life is to continue to nurture the qualities of leadership that you have cultivated here," added President Cesareo. "As leaders formed within the Assumptionist tradition, our world needs you to bring it hope by making society a better place thereby bringing about the kingdom of God. In this way you will be a gift to others." For more information about Assumption College, please visit www.assumption.edu

Clark student-athletes together to stand against relationship violence

ted Lynn Levey '88, Clark's Title IX coordinator and assistant dean of wellness, to turn to the members of Clark's athletic community to rally against a different type of opponent: relationship violence. Levey has been closely watching the issue since May of 2010, when female student Yeardeley Love was murdered by her abusive ex-boyfriend her senior year at the University of Virginia; both were lacrosse players. Levey followed the highly publicized trial while on the faculty at Syracuse University College of Law — where she taught a course on the Violence Against Women Act — and authored a blog post following the verdict.

Following their daughter's death, Yeardeley Love's family established the One Love Foundation, and with it, an educational and training program designed to teach young people how to identify the signs of relationship violence and facilitate open discussions about the topic to share resources and strategies for intervention, with the goal of preventing other incidents like Yeardeley's.

This year, Levey — who played volleyball at Clark — recruited a team of her own, and selected Athletics Director Trish Cronin, Title IX/Wellness Program Manager Elyana Kadish '17/M.A. '18, and several Clark coaches to familiarize themselves with the One Love program and then share it with Clark student-athletes.

The two-part program involves watching a short fictional film about an abusive relationship that also illustrates strategies for intervention and peer-led group discussions. After viewing the film, 17 student-athletes volunteered to be trained and serve as peer facilitators to bring the One Love program to Clark's 340 student-athletes. The peer facilitators led discussions about the film that allowed students to share their perspectives, learn about on- and off-campus resources that can help those who are struggling, and discuss the shame that accompanies intimate partner abuse.

Lacrosse player Brandon King '19 said, "Being part of the One Love team at Clark has been one of the most fulfilling experiences I've had here. The lessons I learned and taught through the program are extremely important for every college student. ... I hope to see the program grow at Clark and on all college campuses around the country."

Anjelica Gonzalez '18, MBA '19, a field hockey player, described her experience as a workshop facilitator for One Love as "eye-opening and extremely rewarding."

"I was originally drawn to the opportunity to facilitate after witnessing, to my surprise, the willingness and passion of my fellow Clark athletes in participating in the difficult, yet important, conversation about dating violence," said Gonzalez. "I am so happy that my university is taking part in a powerful movement to end dating violence, and I am honored to have been part of the first steps of the journey at Clark."

Levey says the students "enthusiastically embraced" the One Love program. Emma Bulman '20 noted that sharing it with other Clark students was beneficial because it was "far more engaging than programs we have done in the past."

Bulman, who is a member of Clark's swimming and diving team, said she was vaguely familiar with the Yeardeley Love case before she came to Clark.

"I remember hearing about this story on the news and from my mom when I was younger, but I didn't understand the situation, or relationship violence, as well as I do now," she said.

Besides learning more about an important issue and being trained to identify and assist others in need, Bulman discovered something else that was positive about her work as a peer facilitator.

"I got to pair up with other athletes that I don't have, a lot of opportunities to interact with," she explained. "Working with Sarah [Berube '21] and Nate [Maselek '19] was a lot of fun."

Berube, a Wilmington native, plays on the women's soccer team.

"So many people I talked to said they did not think of relationship violence as a real problem until they saw the end of the film when names and faces of several victims flash across the screen," she said. "Sexual assault and relationship violence are not easy subjects to discuss, but I know that afterward, every athlete left that room more aware and better equipped to handle any form of relationship violence they may encounter."

Levey was pleased that the One Love program was so successful this year. Beginning this fall, One Love training will be required for all students as part of campus programming initiatives around sexual and dating violence.

Yeardeley Love's murder was a watershed moment for those of us who work with students at universities, to encourage us to speak more directly about the perniciousness and prevalence of partner abuse, and the damage it does in our communities," said Levey. "I'm proud of how our athletic community came together to share these important resources and lessons with their peers. It's just another example of how Clark students are willing to work together to tackle important issues that matter to our community and beyond."

City against selling materials from Ledges site

erty, representing landowner Woburn 38 Development LLC, argued active construction zones are exempt from those local zoning ordinances.

Haverty, whose firm Blatman, Bobrowski & Haverty specializes in municipal land use and Chapter 40B law, also insisted that an underlying April of 2015 Housing Appeals Committee (HAC) decision clearly stipulates that his client can excavate and sell landscaping materials to offset the development costs associated with the 168-unit project.

Woburn 38 Development is an umbrella entity of Connecticut-based Franklin Construction Company, which was required under the state's 40B statute to create the separate corporate holding. Under the state statute, which allows builders to skirt local building and zoning ordinances in communities that lack adequate affordable housing, corporations are restricted in how much profit can be generated from approved developments.

Though prepared to contest Quinn's order, officials representing Franklin Construction are temporarily complying with the ruling.

"We have removed any advertisements for the sale of material, and we have limited the removal of materials leaving the site to [authorized vehicles]" from Onyx Corporation," said Haverty on Friday morning. "I think it's fair to say we disagree with the interpretation. We're looking for clarification as to what the extent of the order is, and we're reserving all our rights until we get that clarification."

According to both Galvin and Woburn 38 Development, both sides plan on sitting down to discuss Quinn's order further next Tuesday.

Neighborhood chaos

Recently, the mayor acknowledged that Woburn 38 Development, per 2015's HAC decision, has been granted a myriad of local zoning ordinance exemptions to facilitate the affordable housing project.

However, he scoffed at the notion that Onyx Corporation can turn the site into an aggregate materials' wholesaler.

"Under the HAC decision, it was clear that Onyx was allowed to do that work. But they only have the authority to remove the stuff from that site. [Once its trucked away from the city], they can do whatever they want with it," said Galvin.

"This has become a very, very sensitive issue. And we're dealing with the fallout of an HAC decision that we feel is totally wrong," added the mayor. "Nobody in this city supports that project... Nobody. But we're going to do our very best to make sure the owner and the contractor comply with the construction plan, local ordinances, and state law."

According to Haverty, the city's objections to the proposed sale of materials ignore the fact that contractors like Onyx Corporation routinely sell crushed stone and rock from active construction sites.

Again describing that activity as allowed, the Concord Chapter 40B specialist claimed that aspect of the construction plan was discussed and discussed at length during ZBA meetings and subsequent proceedings before the HAC and other courts.

Haverty also warned that Woburn 38 Development's entire construction timetable, which calls for at least two years of blasting and earthworks activity, could be prolonged considerably should Quinn's cease-and-desist order stand.

When asked how long of a delay could be expected, the area lawyer responded that his client has not yet had time to calculate the construction timeline impact.

"It's allowed by the comprehensive permit, and it does not constitute a violation of the zoning ordinances," said Haverty. "This is very typical. It's expensive to shop material off site, and [doing so] eats up the value of selling it."

"From our perspective, any requirement [to permanently halt sales] would increase the time it takes to remove this material from the site.

So if Onyx is limited to only removing material in their trucks, the construction process will take longer," he added.

For weeks now, those residing around the construction zone at 1042 Main St. have lodged a multitude of complaints about poor dust control measures, idling construction vehicles, heavy trucking traffic, and property damage from the detonation of explosives at the construction site.

Onyx Corporation and Maine Blasting and Drilling have been hired by Franklin Construction Company to remove nearly 420,000 cubic yards of materials from the nine-acre site.

In order to remove such a vast volume of ledge, Maine Blasting and Drilling crews eventually plan to daily set off two controlled demolition charges, each containing the equivalent of 2,000-to-2,500 pounds of TNT.

Onyx Corporation will also use heavy machinery to crush and grind an estimated 357,632 cubic yards of materials. Overall, a total of 418,281 cubic yards of materials are to be removed by heavy dump trucks. Those heavy vehicles, according to the petitioner, will travel to and from 1042 Main St. some 13,332 times over the next two years.

Local officials like Galvin, who has ordered public safety officials to closely monitor the activity in North Woburn, have insisted there is nothing the city can do to limit the scope of that construction work.

Specifically, the city spent nearly a decade battling the Ledges at Woburn development and a former iteration of the Chapter 40B project proposed by Burlington builder Anthony Santullo. Spending more than $100,000 to litigate Woburn 38 Development's modified proposal — which more than tripled the amount of earthworks activity at the site — Woburn's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) lost its second protracted legal campaign against the project last winter.

Particularly, in Feb. of 2018, the Mass. Supreme Court, the state's highest court, refused to hear an appeal of a 2015 HAC ruling that overturned the ZBA's denial of a comprehensive permit for the 168-unit apartment complex, which will be clustered in three, three-story buildings.

ly of Burns at the "roast," and each presented him a citation; one from the House, and one from the Senate.

"Behind the scenes, you have people like Mr. Burns who go out each and every day with a mission for the greater good. It's volunteers like Mike that make Wilmington Wilmington," said Robertson. "As a younger person, seeing folks like Mike is inspiring. It makes me and others want to give back to the community."

Other people that contributed to the "roast" were Burns' sons, Doug and Chris, Town Manager Jeff Hull, and several of Burns' friends.

In response to receiving this honor, Burns emphasized the importance of community involvement, advocating that it was a positive influence within his own life and relationships.

"I got a lot more out of volunteering than I ever gave. If you're not involved in the community, I strongly suggest that you get involved with different organizations or programs. It's very rewarding, very satisfying. I had the opportunity to meet terrific people and make wonderful lasting friendships," Burns said in his acceptance speech. "This is such a wonderful honor. I feel humbled. I am honored by your presence."

Town seeks answers on WHS gym floor

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — The Town of Wilmington will be entering mediation with contractor Gilbane Company in order to resolve ongoing issues with the wood floor in the high school gymnasium.

According to Hull, just months after the new building's opening in February 2015, public buildings department staff noticed that the floor was "crimping." This was particularly noticeable in the center of the floor, but was visible elsewhere as well.

Hull stated that the town entered meetings with Gilbane, as well as design firm Dore & Whittier. At that time, town officials were told that the crimping was due to the natural acclimation of the wood. Unsatisfied with this response, the town pushed for answers. When the floor remained uneven over time, the public buildings department brought in dehumidifiers and fans. These helped somewhat, but the floor didn't settle completely until fall.

In subsequent summers, the pattern of expanding and then settling has continued.

"Certainly the townspeople paid for a gym floor that was going to function in the way it was intended to and so it's our position that the floor needs to be replaced," said Hull.

Hull stated that there are currently three active bids for the floor replacement project, ranging from $219,200 to $268,666. He said that he expected the project would be awarded to the lowest qualified bidder, and that Town Counsel would be involved in the mediation.

Not all present agreed that the town should accept financial responsibility for the replacement. Selectman Michael McCoy asserted that the problem was the fault of the contractor, and thus the contractor should pay, rather than the town.

"There's no secret, we could all realize what was happening with that floor," said McCoy. "...I definitely feel that that contractor is absolutely responsible for it."

Sisters Jessica and Lauren D'Arco

Double the trouble on the courts

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WILMINGTON — After her doubles partner from last year Krista Brown graduated, Jessica D'Arco was hoping to move up and play in one of the three singles' positions this year for the Wilmington High School Girls' Tennis team. However, those three spots were locked with returning players, who like Jessica and Krista helped the team finish with 11 wins last year and a trip to the state tournament.

Stuck at being without a spot in the singles' line-up, Jessica then suggested an idea to head coach Matt Hackett. She urged him to put her back to the doubles, but insert her younger sister, Lauren, who had one match of varsity experience under her belt.

That idea has worked. Although Jessica missed a match with a minor injury, the two have a 4-3 record together while Lauren is 5-3, all the while helping the Wildcats enjoy a 6-3 overall record, coming two matches shy of making program history by qualifying for the state tournament for the third straight year.

"Jessica is a really positive person and athlete," said head coach Matt Hackett. "She is always smiling and laughing. She gets along well with all of her team mates. She is a phenomenal teammate herself. Her performance has always been to play singles but the past two seasons we have been blessed with overwhelming singles talent. Rather than complain, Jessica has embraced what was best for the team and played doubles.

"Even this year, when she knew she had a great chance to play singles, she sought me out and initiated a conversation about how she and her sister would really work well together as a doubles team and that she'd be willing to do that for team. As a coach, you can't ask for anything more than that type of leadership and selflessness."

Jessica was asked why she thought that would be a good idea, taking a player with one varsity match of experience and putting her with a player, who had 17 career wins entering this season and was named a Middlesex League All-Star player last year?

"We played together at the Woburn Racquet Club and we just have good chemistry playing together," said Jessica in a group interview minutes before the team boarded the bus for an away match on Thursday afternoon. "I can always tell what she's going to do next and she can tell what I'm going to do next. It makes it

Softball team makes Herald's Division 2 North Poll

By JAMIE POTE

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WILMINGTON — It was kind of a strange week for the Wilmington High School Varsity Softball team. The Wildcats finished 2-2, playing four games over the span, beating Lexington and Melrose, while falling to Arlington and Whittier Tech, the latter in a non-league game.

The split puts the team at 7-4 overall, and while the team needs two more wins to qualify for the state tournament, the Boston Herald has inserted the Wildcats into the paper's rankings grabbing the No. 8 spot in Division 2 North.

The week of play started out with a tough 6-4 loss to Arlington in a Middlesex League cross-over game. The Wildcats came out strong scoring three runs in the first inning as Jenna Sweeney, Ashley Crawford and Ally Moran all reached base on two walks and a hit-batsman. Two batters later, Ryan Bailey delivered a RBI single. After a walk to Chase Andersen, Kayla Bourrell singled in both Crawford and Tori Gemellaro, who was the courtesy runner for Moran.

Wilmington's bats were quiet for most of the final six innings, although in the sixth, Bella Kieran was called out at the plate on a controversial call, which negated a big scoring inning for the 'Cats.

In the seventh, the Cats added a run as Kayla Bourrell reached base on an error and then scored on yet another error.

"We made some errors on routine pop ups today," said head coach Audrey Cabral-Pini. "There was a lack of communication on some plays which resulted in the ball just dropping between the players."

Besides some miscues in the field, the coach said both pitchers seemed to have a disadvantage in the game.

"The home plate umpire had a small strike zone today," she said. "Both pitchers threw a lot of pitches especially in the first inning. Arlington was just more patient at the plate."

Wilmington came back from that tough loss and doubled-up on Lexington with a 4-2 decision. The Wildcats scored two runs in the bottom of the third as Jenna Sweeney singled and came around on a RBI double by Ashley Crawford, who then came in on a RBI single by Moran.

In the fourth, Lexington was able to cut the deficit in half scoring a run.

The Wildcats scored single runs in the bottom of the fifth and sixth innings. Kayla Bourrell singled and scored when her sister Kacie put down a bunt and reached on an error. Then in the following inning, Bella Kieran led off with a single, Ryan Bailey sacrificed her to second on a beautiful bunt. Three batters later, Kayla Bourrell singled to center to score Cassidy

Girls Soccer team recognized for excellence on and off the field

The Wilmington High School Girls' Soccer program was recognized by the Eastern Massachusetts Girls' Soccer Coaches Association as one of the eight winners of the Inaugural Program of Excellence winners for Soccer Excellence, "On and Off the Field."

The other winners include Hopkinton, Hull, Mansfield, Marshfield, Medway, Needham and Winchester.

The goal of the Eastern Massachusetts Girls' Soccer Coaches Association (EMGSCA) is to recognize high school soccer excellence, on and off the field. The EMGSCA region represents over 4,000 players on 200 different teams. Over 20 of the graduating players were off to NCAA Division I colleges across the country. Sam Mewis of the USWNT is one of our alumni players.

With such great talent, it's simple to define and recognize excellence on the field. Off the field we have been adding ways to recognize teams and players, like community service and sportsmanship.

This year the EMGSCA challenged high school teams to become Programs of Excellence, requiring them to show proof of commitment, player recognition, academic success, coaching education, community service, sportsmanship, and character.

Eight teams met those criteria. When looking at the winners, not only did they excel off the field, they also excelled on it, posting a record of 103-30-22 in the Fall of 2018. Between the eight teams in 2018 they won one state championship, one regional championship, had two regional finalists, five league championships, four Second EMass Team All-Stars, 17 First Team EMass All-Stars, seven All-State Players, and one All-New England Player.

The inaugural EMGSCA Program of Excellence Award recipients not only found success on the field, but they led the way off the field. The attachment to their community, the leadership roles they hold in school, and the character they build in the grueling fall sports season is something difficult to replicate.

With all this off the field success, the coaches and programs can also boast about their on-field success.

When reviewing these awards, one thing became clear. Teams that find success off the field appear to find success on the field.

The EMGSCA will be presenting the awards to the teams on May 19th.

Sisters prove to be Double the Trouble on the court

Melrose, but the sisters along with Hackett, believe their best match came this past Monday in a two set match defeat to Winchester by scores of 6-4 and 7-5.

"I'm most proud of the way they played against Winchester," said Hackett. "Although it was a loss, they played some of their best tennis of the season. Winchester is a top team and the girls pushed them to their limits frustrating them immensely along the way. Also I'll mention their Melrose match. It was an up and down affair with momentum swinging throughout. The girls won the first set and were up in the second before losing in a tie breaker to force a third set. In the super tie breaker third set -- because the match had been decided -- the girls stepped up their game and pulled away with a hard fought win. It takes immense mental toughness to lose a second set and come back to win another tiebreaker but they did it and I was extremely proud of them."

Jessica and Lauren, as well as younger sister Allison, 10, first got involved in tennis thanks to their father and uncles, who enjoy the sport as a hobby. They took lessons when they were younger and both then tried out for the team during their freshman years. Jessica is now enjoying her third season on varsity.

"Jess is just good at everything. If I mess up, she'll back me up. The chemistry we have (is why we're successful) -- it's just easy (to play with Jess)," said Lauren.

While the sisters are similar in some ways, they are different in others ways, including their personalities on the court.

"Lauren takes her tennis game very seriously," said Hackett. "She is her own worst critic and uses that as motivation to constantly improve and get better. I love her dedication and tenacity on and off the court. Her improved game earned her a huge promotion this year to first doubles with her sister."

The two of them do have different styles in terms of abilities on the court, and that's what makes them such an effective tandem, says Hackett.

"Jessica has a very well-rounded game," he said. "She has solid ground strokes, a booming serve, and can dominate the net with the best of them. She is athletic and covers a lot of ground making life difficult on her opponents. She's just really mentally tough."

"And Lauren is developing nicely into a solid tennis player for our team. She played mostly JV last year although she did make her varsity debut against Burlington at third singles to fill in for injuries and battled extremely well in a pressure filled important match. To her credit, she welcomed the chance to play with her sister. Some siblings would cringe at the thought of playing together. Lauren embraced it."

Certainly the two of them have embraced it and not just because they have been winning. Both of them said that very rarely does one get upset at the other one -- it's basically the complete opposite of that and Hackett for one, concurs.

"They get along well," he said. "They know how to deal with each other and help each other out. They're a great balance on the court to each other. Lauren's game is all about consistency. She's also a really smart player. She's always thinking out there about strategy which is a huge part of doubles. In fact last match the two of them approached me about introducing signs so that they could better dominate a point off the serve. That's a pretty big developmental step for a doubles team but it shows they work well together and have confidence in each other and their tennis."

There's only five regular season matches left on the schedule and then comes the state tournament and that will conclude the tennis career of Jessica, who will be attending Endicott College in the fall to major in Early Education to become a teacher. Lauren -- who will return to WHS for two more years and she will either be moved to a singles' spot, or will have to find her own new doubles partner -- was asked what will she do without her partner in crime by her side?

"I don't know," she answered with a big laugh. "I have no idea."

You can bet she'll come up with a winning plan, just like her older sister did.

"I've been blessed to be working with them," said Hackett. "They are top notch people off the court as well. Both are hard workers, respectful and kind people, and just a pleasure to be around. They both have a very bright future ahead of them."

WHS Girls Tennis stand at 7-4

Wildcats easily bounce past Melrose, now need one more win to qualify for states

MELROSE -- Bouncing back nicely from two consecutive losses, the Wilmington High Girls Tennis team powered their way to a 5-0 road victory over Middlesex League Freedom Division rival Melrose on Monday afternoon, improving their record on the season to 7-4 overall.

The Wildcats headed into Monday's match on the heels of consecutive losses to Middlesex League Liberty Division powers Winchester and Lexington, last Tuesday and Thursday, respectively, but they were not going to be denied against Melrose.

down like that, don't give up. You can still come back."

In second doubles it was the team of sophomore Jess Murray and junior Anjelica Loshak picking up a 4-6, 7-5, 7-4 comeback victory. It was Loshak's first appearance with the varsity squad after spending most of the season with the junior varsity team. After some early struggles the duo played two great sets to get the win.

"This is Anjelica's first year playing tennis, and we kind of wanted to start working her in a little bit," Hackett said. "She and Jess had never played together before, but once they got a feel for what the other was doing, they played really well."

HILL AT INDIVIDUALS

Wilmington High senior Emily Hill is in the midst of an outstanding season for the Wildcats Girls Tennis team, helping to lead her team to a 7-4 record as their number one singles player.

In recognition of her outstanding season, Hill was recently selected to play in the MIAA Individual Tournament where she kicked off play in the North sectional last Saturday afternoon at Newton South High School.

Seeded sixth in the tournament, Hill received a first

The highlights of the day for the Wildcats came in their doubles matches, particularly in first doubles where the sister combination of senior Jess D'Arco and sophomore Lauren D'Arco clawed their way to a thrilling 0-6, 6-4, 8-6 victory with the third set being decided in a super tiebreaker with rain starting to fall.

The D'Arco's quickly found themselves down by a set in this one, but they didn't panic and came back to pull out a thrilling win. Even after dropping the first set 6-0, Wilmington coach Matt Hackett felt like they would bounce back.

"It was weird, because the first set happened so fast," Hackett said. "As I was watching them, I told them that they were not playing bad, they were just making some unforced errors. I told them they were not getting dominated, and just to keep playing hard."

That is exactly what they did, pulling out the tight second set before battling their way to victory in the super tiebreaker in the third.

"They are both very strong willed," Hackett said. "There was some really outstanding doubles play in that super tiebreak. A lot of times kids get nervous in the tiebreak, but these kids seemed to just play better. I think this was a good lesson for tennis players of any age, that even when you are

Much as he was with the first doubles team, Hackett was also pleased with the way Loshak and Murray kept battling after losing the first set.

"Once again, they were very strong willed," Hackett said. "They did not get down after losing the first set. I liked the fact that they weren't playing not to lose, but they were playing to win."

Things went a little more smoothly for the Wildcats in their singles matches, with each member of the Wildcats winning in straight sets. Senior Emily Hill rolled to a 6-0, 6-0 win in first singles, followed by junior Carolyn Roney winning 6-1, 6-3 in second singles and senior Lia Kourkoutas winning third singles 6-1, 6-0.

"That's just what they do," Hackett said. "I ask them every day to go out there and take on the best two or three players on the other team and they always respond. I am extremely lucky as a coach to have all three of them playing at such a high level."

The Wildcats were looking to continue that high level of play on Wednesday when they took on Burlington in a rematch of their only Freedom Division loss of the season. Results of that match were not available as of press time.

The Wildcats will be back in action on Thursday when round bye, but when she did get a chance to play she made the most of it, dominating her opponent from Dover Sherborn by a score of 6-0, 6-2.

"The girl she played from Dover Sherborn had blown out her opponent in the first round, but Emily just dominated in her match," Wilmington coach Matt Hackett said. "It was pretty methodical by Emily. She played high percentage tennis. She got some good net points and there were some points of the match where she was just really dominant. I had faith she would win this match, I just didn't realize she would be so dominant."

With the win Hill advanced to the next round, which was originally scheduled to be played on Sunday but was postponed due to rain, so instead will be played this Saturday at Newton South.

Hill will be playing an opponent from always powerful Middlesex League rival Winchester on Saturday, so Hackett knows it will not be easy. But at the same time he believes Hill has what it takes to win.

"Her opponent is going to be a very solid player, but I really feel like Emily has a good chance," Hackett said. "She has been playing very well, so I feel like she can continue to do that."

WHS Boys Lacrosse

On Senior Night, Wildcats defeated by Wakefield

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON - It was not the Senior Night the Wilmington High Boys Lacrosse team was hoping for. On a night when the Wildcats honored their nine senior players on the squad, they had a tough outing, dropping a 15-3 decision to Middlesex League rival Wakefield at Alumni Stadium on Tuesday night.

The Wildcats got off to a slow start in this one, falling into an early 4-0 hole in the first quarter, and despite their best efforts, they were unable to recover.

"We felt like we could compete with Wakefield, but they put up those four quick goals and that is hard to come back from," Wilmington coach Zach McDannell said. "We came back well and scored a couple of goals, but they scored a couple of goals in transition to extend their lead again. We tried to fight back, but we were just unable to do it."

One aspect of the game that McDannell did like was his team's improved defensive play. While the defense was a weakness of the team early in the season, McDannell has liked what he has seen as of late.

"Our defense is getting better and better every game, and our older players (Kyle Kenyon, Nicholas Leighton) are setting a good example and laying a good foundation for the younger kids for next year," McDannell said. "One thing I know about this group is that they are always trying to improve."

Goals scorers for the Wildcats (1-10) in this one were junior attack Zach Kincaid, freshman midfielder Gavin Erickson and senior attack Andrew Sullivan.

In their previous game against Lexington last Friday, the Wildcats squared off against a powerful Lexington squad, and while they put up a good battle for one half, trailing only 11-7, they could not contain Lexington in the second half and wound up losing by a score of 21-7.

"In the first half we were outstanding," McDannell said. "The kids played so well, and we were competing well with them. Going into the half I felt like we could compete with them, but in the second half we just fell off and they just capitalized on every mistake we made."

The Wildcats got four goals from senior attack Ben Wright, while Erickson added two goals and Sullivan had one.

Prior to the game, the Wildcats honored their ten senior players. This year's Wildcats seniors were,

Connor Benoit, Adam Bishop, Nolan Fitzgerald, Jared Homola, Andrew Sullivan, Kyle Kenyon, Nick Leighton, Alan Morris, Ryan Murphy and Ben Wright,

McDannell is in just his first year as coach of the varsity team, but he coached many of these same players when he was coaching the junior varsity program and he will miss what they have brought to the Wilmington program.

"A lot of these kids are kids who really cared about lacrosse, and when you bring that kind of dedication to the team it will resonate throughout the program, McDannell said. "It is a group of guys I have gotten to know very well. It is awesome to see them graduating, but at the same time I wish I had one more year with them."

The Wildcats will be back in action on Friday when they travel to Stoneham High School, before hitting the road again next Tuesday against Watertown.

Ross, who pinch ran for Kieran to close out the team's offense.

On the mound, Moran went the distance, struck out 11 and didn't allow a walk. She was helped out by her catcher Crawford, who threw out two runners trying to steal second and Sweeney, who put a nice tag on a base runner who inadvertently turned the wrong way on an infield error.

"We made the plays that we needed to make," said Cabral-Pini. "We threw out two runners who tried to steal and our outfielders made very close plays on runners trying to advance. We played much better defensively in this game."

After a heartbreaking 4-2 loss to another ranked team, Whittier Tech, on Mother's Day morning, Wilmington again showed some grit, batting back from adversity and winning the following game, a 1-0 nailbiter over Melrose.

Wilmington scored the lone run of the game in the bottom of the sixth inning. With two outs and the bases empty, Moran singled and advanced to third on an errant throw. Kieran then singled up the middle to score Moran.

Moran went the distance on the mound and tossed a two-hit shutout with 14 strikeouts. Crawford again nailed two runners trying to score, and at the plate, Gianna Brunetto and Moran both finished with two hits.

"We did a better job today than we did vs Whittier," said Cabral-Pini. "But we still have some work to do on our hitting."

Wilmington faced Burlington, one of the top teams in the state on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime. After that will be four additional games going to Tuesday, including Wakefield away on Thursday, Melrose at home on Saturday morning at 10:00 am, away at Gr. Lowell on Monday afternoon and then back home Tuesday night under the lights at 6:00 pm against Stoneham.

On the Track, Wilmington picks up first victory of the season

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WATERTOWN - It was certainly a busy and productive four day stretch for the Wilmington High School Girls Outdoor Track-and-Field team this past week. The Wildcats picked up their first win of the dual meet season, knocking off Watertown, 85-51, in the final Middlesex League Freedom Division Meet of the season and then had some strong performances at this past weekend's annual Andover Booster's Meet.

The win over the Red Raiders completes Wilmington's regular season record at 1-3-1.

"Watertown unfortunately does not have the big numbers and depth on their team," said Wildcat head coach Brian Schell. "It was definitely a chance for us to use this meet to shake a couple things up again and put people in new events. The score was closer than it could have been since we did not put in our varsity relay teams. We were able to have fun and put our thrower squad in and put (captain) Amie (Russell) as the anchor leg of the 4x400."

Wilmington ended with nine first place finishes and ten second places finishes which accounted for 75 of the team's points. Two individuals had terrific days with Katie McLaughlin and Sarah LaVita.

McLaughlin finished second in both the 400-meter hurdles with a time of 1:15 and the long jump with a mark of 13-5.

"This was her first time ever trying the hurdles event and she managed a very solid time," said Schell. "Throughout the season she has been able to adjust and really push herself in any event I put her in. Katie is definitely a well rounded athlete and very versatile. One of the best attributes to have in this sport. Despite her jump in long jump, the runway and board were not at all in ideal conditions and both boys and girls were off their marks all meet. But overall a solid day for her and she did very well."

LaVita took first in the javelin with a personal best throw of 94 feet.

"Sarah has been a strong asset to the team in javelin and she managed a ten-foot personal record," said Schell. "This was a big toss on her first throw after a good warm up and just missed the standard for states by three feet. Even after that, she managed a 90-foot throw so she had some great consistency. As long as she can continue to be consistent at this rate and at her range, she should be able to compete at the state meet."

Besides LaVita, the other first places belonged to Evelyn Miller-Nuzzo in the 400-meter hurdles (1:12), Amber Flynn with a personal best time of 5:57 in the mile, Kaitlyn Doherty in the 100-meter hurdles (17.9) and triple jump (29-3), Amanda Broussard in the 400 (64.1), Gianna Misuraca in the two-mile at 13:26, Russell qualified for the states in the shot put throwing 33-4 and Amber Flynn tossed 87 feet in the discus.

Besides the two second places by McLaughlin, others seconds came Hannah LaVita in both the high jump (4-10) and Triple Jump (29-2), Joanne Arulraj in the 100-meter hurdles, Maggie Bourgeois in the 800 (2:46), Madison Mulas in the 200 (28.3), Olivia Erler in the two-mile (14:06), Miriam Nelson in the shot put (25-3) and Russell in the discus (80-0).

Taking third places for the 'Cats included Carissa Rubin in the mile (6:17), Emily Fothergill in the 100-meter hurdles, Ashlyn Buckley in the 400 (67.9), Shea Cushing in the 800 (2:47), Angie Ciampa in the two-mile (14:29), Ashlyn Buckley in the shot put (23-10), Miriam Nelson in the discus (78-0), Flynn in the javelin (76-0), Juliana Patrone in the high jump (4-8) and Miller-Nuzzo in the long jump 12-10).

"Overall it was a fun meet and the results were more than I expected. It is championship season time and this is where we need to start putting our best foot forward," said Schell.

BOOSTERS MEET

Wilmington had a large number of kids compete at the annual Booster's Meet. Three individuals finished in the top three respective event(s), while another finished fifth during a Freshman/Sophomore race.

Russell had the best performance as she was second in the shot put throwing 33-04, was 8th in the discus at 88-06 and finished 29th in the javelin throwing 64 feet.

"Amie has been consistent these last few meets with her throws in the shot put which is a good start heading into the championship season," said Schell. "Having competed in javelin first on the day, and doing that just for fun, I think it was a good warm up heading into discus and then shot put. I know Coach (Dave) Wilson has been working on her speed through the middle of the circle in shot put recently and it has gotten better. She also had a strong day with her best throw of the season in Discus. It is good to see things coming full circle for her at this point of the season and hopefully she can stay consistent."

Gianna Misuraca finished

8th in the two-mile with a time of 12:34.65, which amazingly was a 14-second personal record.

"She has been very strong in her last two races," said Schell. "We have been working on getting out stronger and attacking the first half of her race and she has done it perfectly. At times during the race she even lead the chase pack. Every time some one passed or tried to pass her, she stayed strong staying with them. Overall she had a great race again and a huge personal record. She looked very strong for the majority of the race we just got to work on that last 600-meters next time around."

Also in the top ten included Hannah LaVita, who was tied for 8th in the high jump at 5-0, while, Amanda Broussard finished fifth in the Freshman-Sophomore 200-meter race with a time of 28.74. She was also 14th in the 100 at 14.00.

Just finishing outside the top ten included Juliana Patrone, who tied for 11th in the high jump at 4-10, the 800 sprint medley foursome of Angelina Zaykovskaya, Broussard Ashlyn Buckley and Madison Mulas also finished 11th at 2:11.78 and Kaitlyn Doherty was 11th in the freshmen-sophomore triple jump event with a jump of 30-feet even.

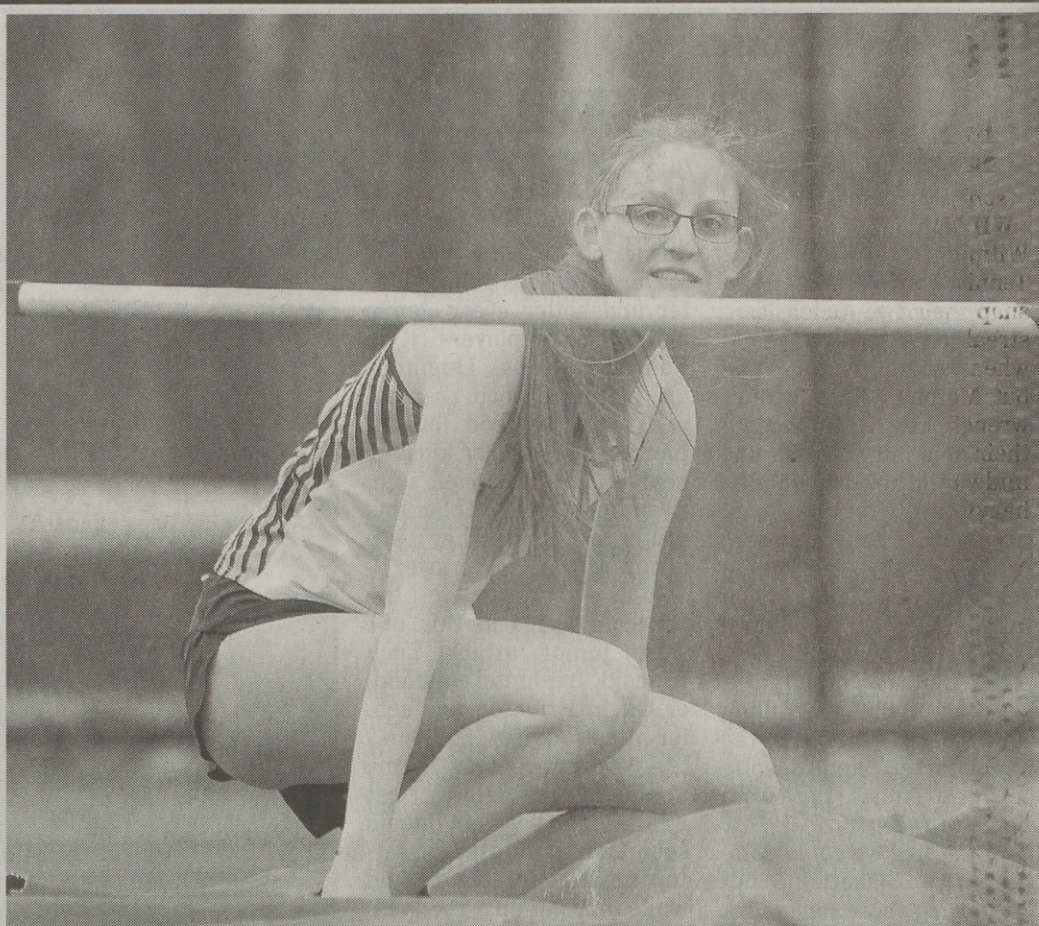

Mulas was also 21st in the freshmen-sophomore 200 at 30.03 and was 38th in the 100 at 14.77 and Buckley was also 23rd in the 200 at 29.66.

Both McLaughlin and Miller-Nuzzo had busy days. McLaughlin was 17th in the freshmen-sophomore long jump at 14-01, was 32nd in the 800 at 2:35.24 and was 53rd in the 100-meter hurdles at 21.01. Miller-Nuzzo was tied for 19th in the high jump clearing 4-8 and was 35th in the 100-meter hurdles at 19.0.

Also competing in the running events included Anja Jensen, who was 17th in the 400-meter hurdles (78.11), Maggie Bourgeois, who was 26th in the 400 at 65.81, Allison Jordan, who was 28th in the mile at 6:27.69, Aaliyah Abel, who was 33rd in the 200 at 30.88 and then the 4x100 relay team of Abel, Zaykovskaya, Proulx and Broussard were 16th at 57.79 seconds.

In the field events, Sarah LaVita was 20th in the javelin throwing 85 feet, Nelson was 21st in the discus throwing 77-01 and Ange Nahimawa was 27th in the discus with a mark of 70-03.

Finally in the other Freshmen-Sophomore events, Ashley LaMonica was 20th in the triple jump at 26-09.50, Carissa Rubin was 27th in the mile at 6:14.75 and Olivia Erler was 33rd in the mile at 6:27.87.

Tennis match against Melrose halted by Mother Nature

By MIKE IPPOLITO

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON -- The Wilmington High Boys Tennis team looked poised to snap their two match losing streak on Monday afternoon when they hosted Melrose, but Mother Nature threw a wrench into their plans as their match was postponed midway through due to heavy rain.

At the time of the postponement, the Wildcats were within two points of winning two of their matches and were tied in two others. The match will be resumed at a later date, picking up where they left off, but Wildcats coach Rob Mailey lamented missing the opportunity for his team to continue their strong play and pull off the upset against the defending Freedom Division champions.

"It was very frustrating. I would have liked to have kept going, but I couldn't in good faith keep it going because the courts were just so wet," Mailey said. "We have to hope we can continue our momentum and get the win when we resume the match."

Wilmington was very close to victory in second singles and first doubles, with senior captain Chris Spinazola holding a 6-3, 4-3 victory in first singles and the duo of eighth grader Owen Mitchell and sophomore Colby Scaplen held a 6-2, 5-4 lead in first doubles.

In first singles, freshman Anay Gandhi was locked in a tightly contested 6-2, 3-6, 1-1 battle, while seventh grader Anuj Gandhi was in the midst of a comeback at 1-6, 3-3 in third singles.

Prior to Monday's match, the Wildcats had lost a pair of matches to Winchester and Lexington last week. The loss to traditional powerhouse Winchester last Wednesday came by a score of 4-1, with Scaplen picking up the lone win of the day for the Wildcats in third singles by a score of 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

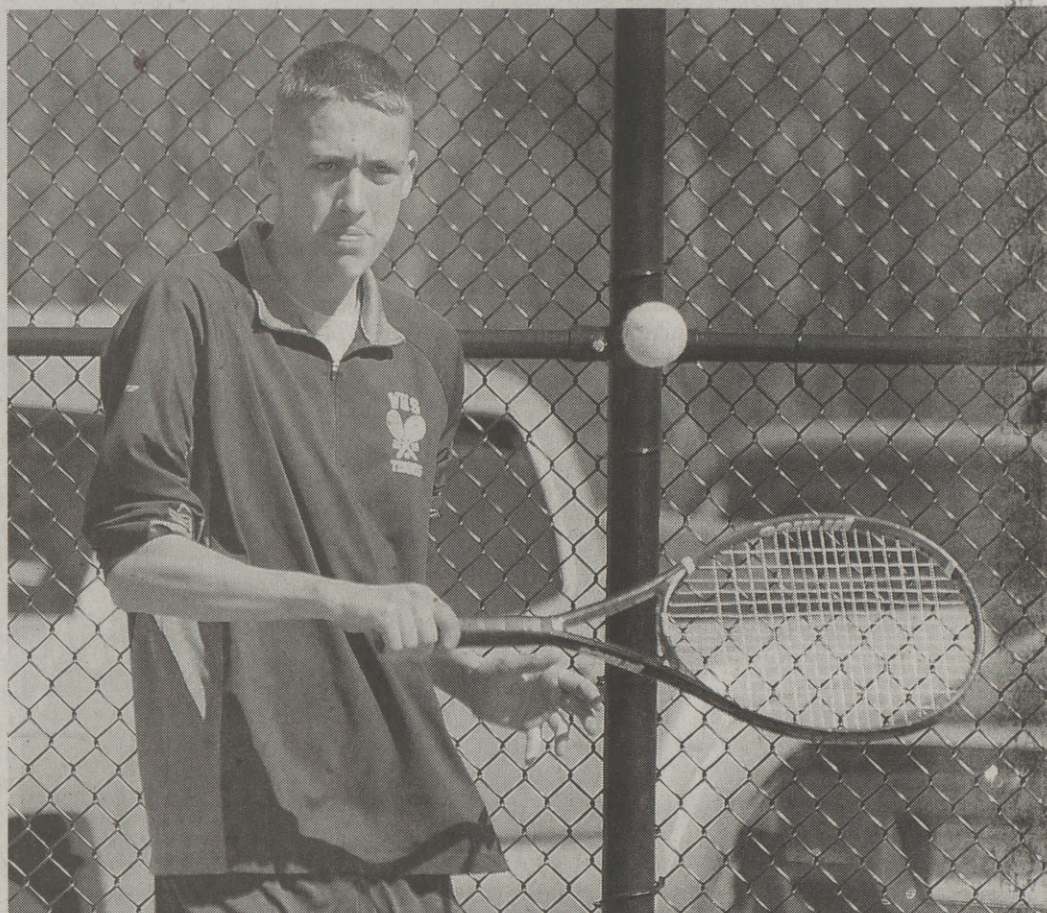

"That was the first time we had ever won a point with Winchester. It had always been 5-0, so that was good to see," Mailey said. "And Colby played a great match to get the win. After losing the first set, he won convincingly."

The Wildcats will look to get back in the win column on Wednesday when they travel to Burlington before staying on the road next Monday to take on Wakefield.

Under 9 Boys Blue Lacrosse team remain on fire

The Wilmington Boys U-9 Blue Youth Lacrosse team remains undefeated with a record of 6-0 with another road win over the Charlestown Townies this weekend winning by a score of 7-2 which made all the Lacrosse Mom's real happy on Mother's Day.

The Wildcats pretty much dominated the game the entire time. Leading the way for the Wildcat squad was midfielder Tommy Conn who scored four goals and added one assist to make sure that the winning ways continued for his team. Jack Salvador had two goals and one assist. Jacob McDeavitt had one goal and one assist and once again dominated the face-off X for the sixth consecutive week to get the Wildcats the much need possessions to keep the ball out of the Charlestown sticks.

Nate Lawrence, Hunter Bentley, Nate Ricciarelli, and Michael Duffy all had assists doing a great job of sharing the ball with their teammates.

Eight different Wilmington kids made the box score. Jack Salvador made some spectacular saves in the goal along with Hunter Bentley who made a really nice save when the team needed it in the first half.

The Wilmington U-9's will be back in action next Sunday at Dracut with an 8:00 am face-off!

Wildcats defeated by a couple of Middlesex League powers

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
WILMINGTON - With a rebuilding roster, the Wilmington High Girls Lacrosse team has shown steady improvement throughout season, even if those results have not always shown up in the win column as the Wildcats have struggled to a 1-10 record on the season.

A big part of the reason that the Wildcats improvement has not shown up in the win column has been the level of competition that the Wildcats face on a daily basis in the very challenging Middlesex League as well as a tough non-league schedule. This past week was a per-said. "We were down 3-0 in just a few minutes and that is tough to come back from."

His team did of course come back, but a pair of quick goals in the second half by Arlington pushed their deficit to 9-3. Although the Wildcats managed to close the gap to within 9-5, Arlington controlled the rest of the second half on their way to the 18-8 victory.

"We are not at the level yet where we can just come storming back," Manchester said. "Part of the problem is we expend so much energy trying to get back in the game that sometimes we just have nothing left at that point."

Junior attack Shannon Barrett led the way offen-sion for long stretches of time. They are very consistent.

"Which isn't to say our girls can't do a lot of the things they do, but they just do them so consistently every time down the field. There were times we played really good defense on them for two minutes and then all it takes is a split second for them to make a perfect pass and set up a goal."

Wilmington was led once again on offense by Barrett, who had two more goals, continuing what has been a fine season for her, giving her 11 goals on the season.

"Last year was her first year playing lacrosse and she has made great progress," Manchester said.

fect example of the challenges the Wildcats face as they took on Arlington and Lexington and suffered a pair of lopsided defeats despite playing pretty well in both games.

The Wildcats began their week with an 18-8 loss to Arlington last Tuesday in a game where they trailed just 7-3 at the half, but saw Arlington's superior talent take over in the second half.

The Wildcats found themselves in a 3-0 hole early on in the game, but closed to within 4-3 in the second quarter before trailing 7-3 at the half. Wilmington coach Bill Manchester knows that the result may have been different if his team had gotten off to a better start.

"Arlington is one of those teams that we match up pretty well with, but we have been getting off to slow starts and that really hurt us in that one," Manchester sively for the Wildcats with four goals, while senior midfielder Cassidy Collins had a goal and an assist and senior midfielders Molly Foley and Natalie Gosselin each had a goal. Senior midfielder Alexa Williams added an assist.

Collins now leads the team with 18 goals on the season, while Foley is second with 15.

Things didn't get any easier for the Wildcats last Friday when they took on Lexington, the top team in the Middlesex Liberty Division and one of the top ten teams in the state, as they suffered a 17-3 loss.

Lexington dominated this one from start to finish, racing out to a 14-1 halftime lead on the Wildcats.

"Lexington is just so good. They have a ton of speed and a lot of good players," Manchester said. "They are very fast and they just keep

"She's got a ton of speed. She had been sick, but since she has come back she has played really well. She has only been playing for one year, but she has great hand eye coordination. She does a great job of catching passes and getting her shot off."

The Wildcats will be back in action on Friday when they host Stoneham, before staying at home to host Watertown next Tuesday on Senior Night.

"We have four games left and they are all against teams where if we play well we have a chance to win," Manchester said. "But if we don't play well, it makes it very difficult for us to win. I have been very happy with the effort I have gotten from this team, so it should make for an exciting couple of weeks. It would be nice to get a couple of wins in there as well."

The senior members of this year's WHS Baseball team includes from left, Andrew Gallucci, Michael Fiorenza, Gavin Kelsey, Christopher Stokes and Peter Marino. This past week Wilmington was defeated by Arlington, 9-6, and Lexington, 8-1, and then had their 7-7 game against Melrose suspended due to inclement weather. The game will be resumed on June 3rd. The 0-2 week puts Wilmington to 5-6 on the season.

Wilmington faced Burlington on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime and then will follow that up with games against Wakefield on Thursday, Shawsheen Tech on Monday and Stoneham on Tuesday.

hit in their first game ever.

For the Cardinals, Ryan MacPherson led the way at the plate going 2-for-2 with a single and double. Mike Belanger, Brady Beldekas, and Max Champness each chipped in with key hits. Jake Beldekas and Vinny Demirev made some big defensive plays in the field as Liam Zolner, Drew Drozdowski, and Liam Callahan each were solid for the Cardinals behind the dish.

The Giants will next take on the Pirates while the Cardinals will take on the Astros.

Astros vs Giants

The Giants were ready to go on Saturday morning. Brendan Cohen made his pitching debut and recorded a couple of strikeouts to start off and Ethan Lydon helped him out with a great defensive play at third. Colin Dwyer got the Giants on the board with a single to plate Gabe Lydon.

Aidan Largenton was next to pitch and he brought his 'A' game throwing an efficient couple of innings holding the opposing bats quiet, aided by a great play in the outfield by Caden Merritt who also brought home two with a timely hit late in the game. Gavin Burke and Joey Cavanaugh each picked up an RBI with some good work at the plate. Dominic DiCenso came in to close and brought some heat to pick up a couple of K's.

For the Astros, Jake Gryglik started on the mound and kept the Giants' hitters off balance doing a great job changing speeds, striking out five in two innings. Owen Wills had one of the most spectacular pitching debuts possible with a ten-pitch shut-down inning, including a strikeout. It was the quickest inning anyone has worked so far this year.

Patrick Moriarty closed the game while fielding two sharp grounders on the mound and firing to Andrew Santo at first for the putouts. Moriarty and Joey Fennelly were reliable behind the plate as always. Kevin Pruslin was one of many flashing great gloves with an outstanding catch at third base.

Fennelly made a terrific play at second fielding a deflected grounder and firing it to Cael Considine at first just nabbing the runner. John Roofoe and Gryglik also made nice plays in the field. Fennelly headlined the offense with two shots to the outfield including a triple clearing the loaded bases. Moriarty was a perfect three-for-three, scoring each time.

Aidan Raposa continued his hot hitting with another sharp single and Santo added a double. Wills, Pruslin, Roofoe, and Connor Jamieson added hits and Considine and Gryglik got on base as well. Wills flashed his speed with another stolen base.

Shawsheen continues to steamroll past CAC opponents

By MIKE IPPOLITO

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BILLERICA - To say the Shawsheen Tech Boys Lacrosse team has been dominant lately would actually be doing a disservice to just how much they have been steamrolling their opponents in recent weeks.

The latest example of their dominance came last Wednesday afternoon on Senior Day at the Charles H. Lyons Athletic Complex when the Rams powered their way past CAC rival Greater Lowell with a 19-5 victory to improve their record to 12-1 overall and 10-0 in the CAC as they close in Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker was asked if he can ever remember a stretch where one of his teams has so thoroughly dominated the opposition for a stretch of games.

"Not off of the top of my head, but we are getting great defense from the net out and taking advantage of that by putting the ball in the net," Baker said.

In the win over Greater Lowell the Rams certainly did plenty of putting the ball in the back of the net, with nobody doing it better than senior attack Owen Sullivan who had eight goals and three assists to lead the Rams offense.

to him." Baker said. "When he is moving he is a great player. That's what he did in this game and it showed with his stats. I hope it carries over for the remainder of the season. A lot of our offense is based off of how he plays."

If Sullivan is the current offensive leader of the team, the Rams also got a glimpse into the future with three Wilmington residents as freshman Dylan Timmons, sophomore Dan Lee and junior Conor Rooney each had three goals with Rooney also adding an assist.

"It is great to have underclassmen contribute and shine," Baker said. "They are all doing a great job and get better each day. We have a lot of potential with this team and the future is bright as well."

The future is certainly bright, but the present is also going pretty well, as Rooney is second on the team with 34 goals on the season, while Timmons has 17 and Lee has 13.

Baker was obviously happy with the way his team controlled play in this one, racing out to a 9-1 halftime lead and keeping the pressure on in the second half, but he also knows there is always room for improvement.

"We controlled the game from the opening faceoff. We did a good job," Baker said. "As a team we still need to do a better job taking care of the ball and have better possessions every time up and down the field, but it was a great win for our Senior Day."

Prior to the game, the Rams honored their five seniors in recognition of their careers with the Shawsheen Lacrosse program. This year's Shawsheen seniors are Owen Sullivan, Ryan Quinones, Jake DeLuca, Tommy King of Wilmington and Logan Singleton of Tewksbury.

The Rams traveled to Austin Prep on Wednesday night in a non-league matchup with the results unavailable as of press time. They will be back in action on Friday night when they host CAC rival Whittier Tech before hitting the road again to take on CAC rival Nashoba Tech next Monday afternoon.

Sullivan now has 37 goals on the season to lead the Rams. Baker is used to seeing Sullivan lead the way offensively, but he had to acknowledge that there was something special about this performance.

"Owen stepped it up in this one and I commented on it on a fourth straight CAC title.

With last Wednesday's win, the Rams have now outscored their opponents 60-10 over their past four games, including wins of 16-0 over Northeast and 12-2 over Minutemen two weeks ago.

The Rams suffered losses to Essex Tech last Tuesday (3-0), Whittier Tech last Thursday (4-1) and finally Greater Lawrence last Friday by a score of 8-3.

The three losses dropped the Rams back below the .500 mark for the season at 6-7.

Shawsheen coach Brian McCarthy and his team did not overreact when they were winning six out of seven games, and they aren't going to overreact after a few losses, but at the same time McCarthy knows his team will have to play better going forward.

"It was a tough week for us last week. It's not where we wanted to be, coming out of a big league week," McCarthy said. "We were competitive in the games, we fought hard. I wasn't disappointed in the effort. We just made too many mistakes that cost us some runs. We've got to be better in all phases of the game if we want to get back into the win column soon."

"If any positives to take out of the week, we are still getting some good starting pitching efforts from a few players and a few kids continue to hit the ball well. We just need to get much better on defense."

While the pitching has been very good, including a fine performance by senior C.J. Zemetres of Tewksbury in the 3-0 loss to Essex, the Rams have struggled to get much going offensively. In the 4-1 loss to Whittier, the Rams lone hits came from Zemetres, who also had the Rams lone RBI, along with D.J. Williams, Cam Rich and Connor Maguire.

Ryan surpasses over 300 career saves, as Rams pick up another close victory

BILLERICA - Continuing what has been an impressive stretch of play, the Shawsheen Tech Girls Lacrosse team picked up a thrilling 7-6 win over CAC rival Essex Tech on Monday afternoon at the Charles H. Lyons Athletic Complex.

The win not only improved the Rams record on the season to 7-4 overall, but more importantly it improved their record to 7-1 within the CAC, giving them a chance to earn their fourth consecutive CAC title.

If they do go on to earn the CAC crown, they will look back fondly on Monday night's game where they outlasted a talented Essex team on their way to the huge league victory.

The Rams were led to victory by a pair of goals each from seniors Megan Brown and Kara Ippolito, while fellow seniors Brooke Johnson and Maddie Rumley, along with junior Jade Sweeney, had one goal each.

a pass from her fellow defender, and managed to kill the clock.

"We played the remaining five minutes with strong, quality, lacrosse," Shawsheen coach Alex O'Reilly said. "And Julia did a great job of killing the clock. She stalled behind the net and kind of took everyone on the field by surprise. In our team's moment of panic, she caught everyone off guard and really slowed things down."

She's seen games like this where it really comes down to maintain possession in the remaining few minutes, but it's always been down on our offensive end. It was a fantastic in-game decision and very admirable for the younger girls to see a seasoned vet rise from the chaos and take the reins of the game."

The win was especially sweet for the Rams, who had suffered a tough 13-12 heart-breaker to Lowell Catholic just last week. O'Reilly and the Rams were happy to be on the opposite end of a close one this time around.

game."

While Ryan made a huge play for the Rams late in the game to secure the victory, she was also outstanding throughout the game, reaching the 300 save plateau and beyond. She ended the game with 322 career saves in just three seasons.

"Julia is having an unbelievable season. Every game it's either an opposing coach, referee, or other game staff commenting on her play and admiring her skill. She is so humble on the field and maintains fantastic sportsmanship and composure no matter what situation our team is in," O'Reilly said. "To see her reach such an incredible accomplishment, 300 saves in just three seasons is very special. I can't think of a more deserving and hard-working individual to be honored with an accomplishment of that nature."

Ryan and the rest of the Rams will be looking for a huge accomplishment this week as they aim for their fourth straight CAC title. With only one league loss

Senior goalie Julia Ryan of Wilmington picked up the win in net, making her 300th career save along the way.

The Rams trailed 2-1 at the half as they struggled to get their offense going, but they turned things around in the second half, eventually tying the game at 5-5 with about ten minutes left before goals by Sweeney and Brown made the score 7-5 with five minutes left.

Essex was able to pull within 7-6, but would get no closer, due at least in part to some heads up play from Ryan. With less than a minute remaining, Ryan called for the ball, received

"Games like that come down to winning every draw, every ground ball, every turnover, and every drive to net," O'Reilly said. "We lacked in fulfilling the fundamental needs of a successful game against Lowell Catholic and because of that, we couldn't finish. We faced the same difficulty today with Essex Tech but we were able to unwind at the end with those five remaining minutes on the clock, ground ourselves, and change the outcome. The girls focused on the small stuff for five minutes and maintained the lead today over Essex finishing a close the Rams are heading into an important week of play when they travel to Mystic Valley on Wednesday afternoon. The Rams had lost to Mystic 10-9 in their season opener, handing them their only league loss of the season.

Right now the Rams stand tied with Mystic with one league loss apiece, while Essex has two league losses, so Wednesday's game will go a long way towards determining the CAC championship. Results of the game were not available as of the Town Crier's press time.

Baseball team hits a rough patch - lose three straight

BILLERICA - After being on a great roll for the past few weeks, winning six out of seven games to push their record over the .500 mark, the Shawsheen Tech Baseball team had a setback this past week, dropping three straight games to CAC opponents.

The Rams suffered losses to Essex Tech last Tuesday (3-0), Whittier Tech last Thursday (4-1) and finally Greater Lawrence last Friday by a score of 8-3.

The three losses dropped the Rams back below the .500 mark for the season at 6-7.

Shawsheen coach Brian McCarthy and his team did not overreact when they were winning six out of seven games, and they aren't going to overreact after a few losses, but at the same time McCarthy knows his team will have to play better going forward.

"It was a tough week for us last week. It's not where we wanted to be, coming out of a big league week," McCarthy said. "We were competitive in the games, we fought hard. I wasn't disappointed in the effort. We just made too many mistakes that cost us some runs. We've got to be better in all phases of the game if we want to get back into the win column soon."

"If any positives to take out of the week, we are still getting some good starting pitching efforts from a few players and a few kids continue to hit the ball well. We just need to get much better on defense."

While the pitching has been very good, including a fine performance by senior C.J. Zemetres of Tewksbury in the 3-0 loss to Essex, the Rams have struggled to get much going offensively. In the 4-1 loss to Whittier, the Rams lone hits came from Zemetres, who also had the Rams lone RBI, along with D.J. Williams, Cam Rich and Connor Maguire.

In Friday's 8-3 loss to Greater Lawrence, the Rams once again struggled to get anything going offensively, with the lone bright spot coming from freshman Owen Duggan, who had his first varsity hit in the loss while also playing well defensively.

"It was a back and forth game early on, but then we gave up a three run fourth inning, and we trailed from there," McCarthy said. "We threatened a few times, but couldn't scratch any runs across."

McCarthy and the Rams are eager to put this week behind them and move on.

It will certainly not get any easier, starting with a matchup against CAC rival Northeast on Tuesday night with the results not available as of press time. The Rams will be back in action next Monday when they travel to non-league rival Wilmington before traveling to Mystic Valley next Tuesday for another CAC matchup.

"That's the great thing about baseball, lots of games that give you the ability to bounce back quickly," McCarthy said. "You need to have a short memory in this game. We take on Northeast on Tuesday who we won a tough 5-4 game against earlier this season. It will be good to see us get back out there and hopefully get a much needed win or two."

Boys Track team captures fourth straight CAC League Title

By MIKE IPPOLITO

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BILLERICA - Trailing Greater Lawrence by ten points in last Friday's tri-meet against Greater Lawrence and Lynn Tech, the Shawsheen Tech Boys Track and Field team was in danger of seeing not only their undefeated season, but also their hopes of winning the CAC dual meet championship slip away.

The Rams faced that ten point deficit following the 4x100 relay, with only four events remaining in the meet. It was certainly not an ideal situation, but it was also not time to panic for the Rams, who dominated the final four events of the meet to clinch a 74-62 victory over the Reggies at the Charles H. Lyons Athletic Complex.

That win, coupled with their 89-47 win over Lynn Tech, wrapped up a perfect 10-0 season for the Rams, clinching the CAC dual meet championship for the fourth consecutive season.

Even when trailing by ten after the 4x100, Shawsheen coach Jeff McGrath was confident his team would be able to bounce back.

"I knew that we were going to struggle in that (4x100) event, because we strategized to take points in other events so some of our better 100-meter runners weren't utilized," McGrath said. "Interestingly enough, myself and the captains had already prepared for the scenario in which we trailed at that point in the meet. We knew we were heavily favored in the 400 and the 800, and should be able to go 1-2 in both events to swing the points by 14 in our favor."

As it turned out, that is exactly what happened, with senior captain Jason Myers of Tewksbury, along with junior Matthew Pustizzi taking first and second in the 400 in times of 54.01 and 55.15 respectively. They were followed shortly thereafter by a first place finish by Stephan Saint-Juste in the 800 in a time of 2:08.14 followed closely by senior Gavin Pigott of Wilmington in second with a time of 2:05.22.

"Jason and Matt in the 400, and Stephan and Gavin in the 800 were all aware of the magnitude of the situation," McGrath said. "The best part about this team is that they welcome the pressure. They thrive in scenarios in which all the chips are on the table and they are required to perform. Jason and Matt went 1-2 as we had hoped, and cut the lead from ten to three. Then Stephan and Gavin went first and second, with Gavin running a personal record in the event to put us up four."

The meet was still in doubt however, with the 200-meter dash still to come. But those doubts were quickly erased when senior Ralph Desrosiers of Wilmington continued his undefeated season by winning the event in a time of 23.51, followed by sophomore Derek Costello of Wilmington in third place in a time of 24.69.

"We knew that even though Ralph wasn't seeded as the number one 200 runner at the meet, that he wouldn't lose," McGrath said. "There's a confidence that he has, that we have all been witness to, that made it seem almost a foregone conclusion that he would take first. On the season he is undefeated in both the 100 and 200, so we felt really good about taking at least first, which would give us at least a five point cushion."

But that cushion would not have been enough without the efforts of Costello. The sophomore is new to the 200, having just begun running it a couple of weeks back, but he has already qualified for the state vocational meet in the event.

"Derek is our best 400-meter hurdler, and had been working on the 110's for the majority of the season," McGrath said. "About two weeks ago, he approached me about shifting out of the 110's and running the 200, because he felt like he could run in the mid 25's. He ran his first 200 last week at Essex, and turned some heads taking second behind Ralph."

"So prior to the start of the 200, myself and the 4x400m relay team discussed the possibility of us going first and third in the event. If that happened, we would be up seven, making the 4x400-meter inconsequential. Derek ran a great race, and he and Ralph secured the first and third finish we needed."

At that point, the meet was decided, but the 4x400 relay team of Pustizzi, Dan Archibald, senior captain Ryan Smith and Myers was not about to let that deter them from putting an exclamation point on the win. Smith, the Rams most outstanding distance runner, who normally dominates the two-mile, subbed into the 400 relay and the team did not miss a beat.

"The relay team knew that the meet was decided, but didn't want to celebrate until they had slammed the door," McGrath said. "As far as the majority of the team knew, we needed the relay to win the meet. It made for an exciting environment. Ryan was subbed in place of Gavin who was struggling to bounce back from his personal record in the 800 just minutes earlier. Smith was like a bullpen arm. We called him to warm up, and he was more than ready for the pressure of the situation. The group ran just shy of their season best."

Along with the meet clinching events, the Rams had several other outstanding performances as well, starting in the 100-meter dash where Desrosiers won in a time of 11.71, along with the 400-meter hurdles where Costello took second in a time of 1:03.18.

The Rams also got first place finishes from Saint-Juste in the high jump with a height of 6-00 and Myers in the long jump with a distance of 19-11 as well as the triple jump with a distance of 39-09. Archibald took second in the long jump with a distance of 39-09.

Other top performers on the day included Ryan Smith with a first place finish in the two mile in a time of 10:35.79, along with senior Mike Reppucci of Tewksbury with a second place finish in the 110 hurdles in a time of 16.86 followed by junior Cole Privitera in third with a time of 19.05.

Senior Anthony DiCesare earned a second place finish in the javelin with a throw of 121-01.

McGrath was thrilled with the way his team battled their way to another CAC championship. After sharing the title in 2016 and 2017 the Rams have now won the title outright the past two seasons and have won 27 consecutive league meets.

"I'm incredibly proud of this team. Early in the year

I had some questions about how committed they really were," McGrath said. "I knew we had at least a handful of guys who had been to the mountain top the last few years and who knew what it takes to win a championship. The thing is, winning is hard. It's really hard. And for them to be able to run the table, they would need to galvanize and get everyone on the same page. Shortly after our Bedford scrimmage over April Vacation, the team got together for a "players only" meeting. I don't know exactly what was said, but from that point forward, the entire team was completely locked in."

"It took some gutsy performances in some really pressure packed moments to beat a deep Greater Lawrence team. I appreciate how our underclassmen have seemingly grown up right before our eyes in a matter of weeks."

"And of course, performances from Smith, Pigott, St. Juste, Reppucci and Myers were critical to our success. But I can't say I'm completely surprised. Those guys have been a part of four championship teams now. They shared titles as co-champions in 2016 and 2017, and were outright champions last year. So to them, this is just par for the course. I don't know when the run will end, but I'm savoring every moment while we can."

In their previous meet last Tuesday at Essex Tech, the Rams swept their tri-meet, defeating host Essex 91-45 and Chelsea 107-29.

The Rams got several outstanding performances on the day, including Desrosiers who won both the 100-meter dash in a personal best time of 11.56 and the 200 in a personal best time of 23.2.

Myers also had a big day for himself, taking first place in both the long jump with a personal best distance of 19-5 and the triple jump with a distance of 39-6 as well as in the 400 meters with a time of 53.26. Saint-Juste was first in the discus with a throw of 96-3 as well as in the high jump with a height of 5'6", while also finishing second in the 800 with a personal best time of 2:06.70.

Girls easily overtake two more opponents, close out season with a 10-1 record

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BILLERICA - Wrapping up an historically great season, the Shawsheen Tech Girls Track and Field team swept a tri-meet against Greater Lawrence and Lynn Tech on Friday afternoon at Charles H. Lyons Athletic Complex.

After suffering their first loss of the season last week to Essex Tech, the Rams bounced back in impressive fashion, defeating Lynn Tech 86.50-48.50 and Greater Lawrence 97-39 to improve to 10-1 on the season, setting a record for the best winning percentage in the history of the girls program (.909).

The Rams were led once again in the victory by senior captain Alex DiPerri, who earned three first place finishes and one second place finish to wrap up her dual meet career in great fashion.

For the first time all season DiPerri did not win the 100-meter dash, finishing second in a time of 13.61. But she continued her dominance with wins in the long jump with a distance of 15-06.50 and the triple jump with a distance of 32-04.00. She also ran the anchor leg as part of the 4x100 relay team along with freshman Karissa Rogato, and sophomores Shelby Bourdeau and Susanna Gillis in a time of 52.98.

Rogato, Gillis and Bourdeau had outstanding days of their own, with Bourdeau also winning the 100-meter hurdles in a time of 17.53, while Rogato won the 200-meter dash in a time of 29.34 and Gillis took second in both the long jump with a distance of 14-06.50 and the triple jump with a distance of 31.01.00.

Senior captain Ivana Wisky of Tewksbury was once again outstanding in this one and appears primed to have a big post season as the Rams prepare for the State Vocational and CAC Championship Meets. Wisky won the 800 meters in a time of 2:42.24, while also taking the two mile in a time of 13:57.52, beating her nearest competitor by over 18 seconds.

Senior captain Sam Moriconi continued her season of dominance with wins in the shot put with a distance of 32-02 and the discus with a throw of 75-03, while finishing second in the 100-meter hurdles in a time of 20.26.

Those winners were not alone in leading the Rams to victory, however. Sophomore Jacqui Megna also had an outstanding day, earning a first place finish in the one mile with a time of 6:34.81 and a second place finish 800 meters in a time of 2:51.46.

Other top finishers for the Rams included sophomore Eryn Ward who was second in the 400 in a time of 1:09.90, junior Allison Haley who was second in the high jump with a height of 4-06 and junior Brooke Bicknell who was second in the javelin with a throw of 74-09.

Sophomore Katie MacElhiney earned a third place finish in the one mile in a time of 7:15.99, while freshman Jada McNair took third in the javelin with a distance of 72-04 and senior Shannon Fitzgerald was third in the high jump with a height of 4-04.

The two wins not only allowed the Rams to finish their dual meet season with a record of 10-1, it also gave the Rams seniors a record of 31-7-1 over their four year careers which also included State Vocational championships in 2016 and 2018.

"It's been an awesome run," Shawsheen coach Jeff McGrath said. "They're unbelievably talented, headlined by Alex DiPerri, Shannon Fitzgerald, Sam Moriconi and Ivana Wisky. They've blazed a trail for the girls program that will allow the next wave of great athletes to carry the torch."

"Susanna Gillis, Shelby Boudreau, Eryn Ward, Jacqui Megna, and Karissa Rogato are a handful of super talented freshmen and sophomores who got to learn from the upperclassmen leadership. On their way to 10-1, the girls defeated Chelsea for the first time in our programs history."

"According to all of the records I have access to, the best girls record previous to this season was 11-2. I don't know when Chelsea joined the league, but in the last eight years we had never beaten them."

McGrath is also grateful to the senior for raising the profile of the Girls Track program at Shawsheen with their outstanding performances throughout their careers.

"I think that the girls program has earned the respect of league opponents as well as divisional opponents," McGrath said. "What was once one or two athletes appearing at states every few years has grown into an annual representation. I hope that these girls look back on their time here and recognize that although we were unable to win the league, they can claim ownership of 2 state vocational championships, the only ones ever won at Shawsheen. I know that they, and myself, plan on making it three this week!"

Prior to their sweep of Friday's tri-meet, the Rams had split a tri-meet last Tuesday at Essex Tech, falling to host Essex by a score of 83-53, but defeating Chelsea by a score of 73-63.

Moriconi was once again outstanding in her events, taking a first place finish in the discus with a personal best throw of 86-3 as well as in the shot put with a throw of 33-05.

Wisky also had a pair of strong efforts, taking first in the 800 meters in a time of 2:32.82, while taking second in the two mile in a time of 14:17.68. DiPerri meanwhile was first in the 100-meter dash in a time of 13.51 and third in both the long jump and the triple jump while setting personal bests in both events.

DiPerri had a leap of 16-04 in the long jump, which was good enough to qualify her for the Division 3 Eastern Mass. State meet, and a distance of 31.75 in the triple jump.

Gillis meanwhile was first in the triple jump with a distance of 31-08, while Bourdeau was first in the 110-meter hurdles in a personal best time of 17.27.

Strong showings by both track teams at the State Voc Meets

CANTON - In addition to wrapping up tremendous dual meet seasons this past week, several members of the Shawsheen Tech Boys and Girls Track and Field teams traveled to Blue Hills Regional Vocational School in Canton on Monday afternoon to compete in the Massachusetts State Large School Vocational Championship Meet.

Several members of both teams performed very well against some of the top vocational talent in the state, with the girls team earning a third place finish, while the boys finished sixth.

On the Girls side, the Rams tallied 76 points to earn their third place finish, trailing only champion Essex Tech who finished with 104 points and second place Worcester Tech who finished with 86 points.

The Rams were led by many of the same athletes who helped lead them to a 10-1 dual meet record, starting with senior Sam Moriconi who continued her outstanding season by winning the shot put with a throw of 32-00.25, while also taking fifth place in the discus with a throw of 80-03.

Other top finishers for the Rams included sophomore Susanna Gillis and senior Alex DiPerri, each of whom performed well in multiple events.

Gillis earned a second place finish in the in the triple jump with a distance of 31-06.00, while finishing third in the long jump with a distance of 15-05.00 and sixth in a field of 23 runners in the 200-meter dash in a time of 29.52.

DiPerri meanwhile was second in the long jump with a distance of 15-08.00 and third in the triple jump with a distance of 30-11.00 while also finishing third sixth out of 21 entrants in the 100-meter dash in a time of 14.09.

Both runners were also part of the Rams 4x100 team which finished third in a time of 55.96, along with freshman Karissa Rogato and sophomore Shelby Bourdeau.

Rogato and Bourdeau also had fine individual days, with Bourdeau finishing second in the 100-meter hurdles in a time of 17.93, while Rogato was ninth in field of 23 entrants in the 200-meter dash and tenth in the 100-meter dash in a time of 14.34.

Also performing well in multiple events for the Rams was senior Ivana Wisky of Tewksbury, who was second in the 800 meters in a time of 2:43.44, and sixth in the one mile in a time of 6:16.71.

Junior Jacqui Megna followed close behind Wisky in the mile with an eighth place finish in a time of 6:40.77, while junior Shayla Lee of Tewksbury was fifth in the javelin with a distance of 84-09 and fellow junior Brooke Bicknell was sixth with a throw of 83.02.

BOYS TAKE SIXTH

On the Boys side, the CAC Dual Meet champion Rams scored 46.5 points to earn themselves a sixth place finish, narrowly trailing a fourth place tie between Essex Tech and Whittier Tech, each of whom finished with 48 points. Southeastern Regional won the meet with 85 points.

The Boys were led by a first place finish from their 4x100 relay team of Matt Pustizzi, junior Dan Archibald, junior Gavin Pigott of Wilmington and senior Jason Myers of Tewksbury, who earned their first place finish with a personal best time of 3:40.18.

The other winner on the day for the Rams was senior Ryan Smith, who earned a first place finish in the two mile in a time of 10:40.93.

The Rams also had several athletes perform well in multiple events, starting with senior Ralph Desrosiers of Wilmington, who finished sixth in a field of 32 entrants in the 200-meter dash in a time of 24.72, and eighth in a 31 runner field in the 100-meter dash in a time of 12.323. Desrosiers was followed in a photo finish by senior Mike Reppucci of Tewksbury, who finished in a time of 12.326. Reppucci also took fourth in the 110-meter hurdles in a time of 17.48.

In addition to helping the Rams win the 4x100, Myers also had a big individual day, taking fifth in the 400 meters in a time of 54.33, while also finishing fifth in the long jump with a distance of 19-05.00.

Pigott also contributed to the Rams cause beyond the relay, taking second place in the 800 in a personal best time of 2:09.72. Pustizzi also did well individually, earning a tenth place finish in the 400 meters in a time of 56.56.

Senior Stephan Saint-Juste meanwhile earned a fifth place finish in the 800 meters in a time of 2:14.02, while earning an eighth place finish in the high jump with a height of 5-06.00.

Sophomore Alex Smith performed well in multiple events, taking eighth place in the one mile in a time of 5:12.42, while finishing 11th in the 800 meters in a time of 2:21.93.

Other top performers for the Rams included sophomore Derek Costello of Wilmington, who was fourth in the 400 hurdles in a time of 1:02.88, senior Omar Eldaly of Wilmington, who was ninth in the shot put with a distance of 35-05.50, senior Anthony DiCesare who was fifth in the javelin with a throw of 127-10, and junior Christopher Melo of Tewksbury, who was 12th in the 110-meter hurdles in a time of 19.28.

Co-Ed Tennis team at 12-2, vying for league championship title

BILLERICA - The wins keep piling up for the Shawsheen Tech co-ed Tennis team, with the Rams having now won five matches in a row to push their record on the season to 12-2 overall, putting them in great position to win the CAC championship.

The Rams won three more matches this week, downing Greater Lowell by a score of 5-2 in a doubleheader match last Wednesday before defeating Greater Lawrence last Thursday by a score of 6-1.

The Rams were set to square off against Greater Lawrence again this Tuesday, with results of the meet unavailable as of press time. If the Rams were able captain Adam Hines of Tewksbury in first singles by a score of 10-1. Hines remained undefeated on the season, continuing to impress first year head coach Jay Tildsley with his consistently outstanding play.

"Adam has been the leading force behind our success this year," Tildsley said. "He was determined to shake up the league. Our goal with his leadership was to try and compete for a league championship. Adam took charge from the beginning, he has led by example, constantly helping our younger players and teaching them great technique and skills."

Other singles players earning wins against Greater Lowell were junior Kevin Merino by a score of 10-6 strengths. Cam is a solid front man and Cassidy plays the alley and back so well. "Also, the consistent play of Michelle Chen and Sam Fusco has been extraordinary. These girls have worked very hard and it has paid off. They are calm and cool and get the job done."

There is still work to be done of course if the Rams hope to achieve their goal of winning a league title, but they did get great satisfaction in finally beating their nemesis from Greater Lowell, who had been undefeated in the league for the past five seasons.

"The excitement over beating Greater Lowell was incredible," Tildsley said. "After our last match there were hugs and cheers. The kids worked very hard for this opportunity. After to win that match they would secure the CAC championship.

Shawsheen put themselves in position to win the league crown with their biggest win of the season last Wednesday over Greater Lowell. In fact, it was the Rams biggest win in several seasons, as it was the first time they have defeated the perennial champion Gryphons since 2013.

Leading the way for the Rams in the win was senior and freshman John Zembeck by a score of 10-5.

In doubles play, senior Cassidy Phillips of Tewksbury and fellow senior Cam Hudson earned a 10-5 win, while seniors Samantha Fusco and Michelle Chen, both of Wilmington, also earned a 10-5 victory.

"The co-ed doubles team of Hudson and Phillips has surprised many in the league," Tildsley said. "They play well with each other, complementing each other's Michelle and Sam's win the team erupted with excitement after handing Greater Lowell their first loss in over five years.

"This has been a very special season. The seniors' goal coming into the season was to be competitive and after picking up some wins and having success they set their sights on Greater Lowell. With a win over Greater Lawrence we will be outright champions!"

Softball team suffers three straight losses

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

BILLERICA - With several new players being inserted into the lineup there are bound to be some ups and downs for the Shawsheen Tech Softball team this season, and this week provided further evidence of that as the Rams suffered three losses in a row to drop their record on the season to 4-7 overall.

Shawsheen had started the season by going 0-3 out of the game, but had fought back to win four of five games and even their record at 4-4 heading into this week before losing three in a row to drop to 4-7 overall and 2-4 in the CAC.

Shawsheen's most recent loss came on Monday afternoon at home to CAC rival Essex Tech by a score of 8-2 in a game that was actually much closer than the score would indicate.

The score stood tied at 2-2 after three innings, but a five run fourth by Essex, aided in large part by some sloppy defense by the Rams, put them in a hole they could not recover from.

Junior shortstop Ashlyn Bisso of Tewksbury led the Rams offense with three hits on the day, while senior captain Becca Smith of Tewksbury had two hits and reached base three times. Freshman leftfielder Kayla Mirisola of Tewksbury and junior catcher Grace Clark had the other hits for the Rams.

Senior captain Bella Richard was involved in nine outs to lead the defense, while freshman pitcher Sandra Watne of Tewksbury struck out seven batters, walked one, and gave up four earned runs to a good hitting Essex team.

Essex is a good hitting team, but our defense held them in check for a lot of the game. Really we just had one bad inning," Shawsheen coach Scott Ialuna said. "Sandra rebounded from an injury and pitched well today, as did Marissa Brangiforte, who made a spectacular play at second base to kill a rally in the sixth."

Prior to the loss to Essex, the Rams had suffered a 13-5 loss to non-league rival Bishop Fenwick last Friday, where once again Shawsheen played better than the final score indicated.

Shawsheen trailed only 5-4 after five innings and 8-5 after six innings before Fenwick put up five runs in the top of the seventh to account for the blowout score.

Becca Smith had three hits in the game. Including a triple, while Grace Clark had two RBIs, and Marissa Brangiforte tripled as well. The Rams were also the victims of some bad luck, as the play of the game was made by Bishop Fenwick in the second inning when their rightfielder robbed Brangiforte of a two-out bases loaded extra base hit as she caught a ball over her head while falling down. The Rams stranded eight runners on the day.

"Bishop Fenwick plays in a tough league and they are in a higher division than us. But we went toe to toe with them for six innings," Ialuna said. "We made plays in critical times in the game, which we were not doing before. Due to injuries I had to move a few people around on Friday, but they responded well."

"There was no quit in anyone the last two games and it showed. We fought hard, and that is all I can ask of them."

Shawsheen had started their week with an 11-2 loss to Essex Tech last Tuesday in a road game.

Oberg's dream becomes a reality: Rockies' pitcher tosses inning at Fenway

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
BOSTON -- On Tuesday night, Scott Oberg's lifetime dream became a reality.

In his fifth year as a professional baseball pitcher for the Colorado Rockies, the 29-year-old Tewksbury resident finally pitched at Fenway Park.

With a handful of family and friends on hand as part of the 35,000 plus paid attendance, the 29-year-old from Tewksbury, who has been one of the premier relief pitchers in all of baseball, tossed an inning on the same mound that his childhood idols Pedro Martinez and Mike Timlin did for many years, including in the 2004 World Series Championship title.

"I was little more calm than I thought I would be," said Oberg after the completion of the 11-inning game in which the Rockies came out with a 5-4 victory. "I was fairly relaxed. It was good visual and a lot of fun. I just had a blast. I was able to fulfill a dream tonight so it's kind of indescribable."

Oberg said on Monday that he wanted to take in every single minute of this opportunity, especially since two years ago, he missed that chance when he was sent down to Triple-A just days before the Rockies were to make the trip to Boston.

"I got (to Fenway) kind of early (on Tuesday) and I walked around the park and took a lot of pictures, saw a bunch of people I knew, saw some Tewksbury stuff from the crowd so that was great. It was a lot of fun," he said.

"I saw (TMHS Athletic Director and former TMHS Baseball coach Ron) Drouin, I saw Justin Tornante and his dad (Lou), I saw (former assistant baseball coach Billy) Blackwell, so it was good."

Through the first six innings of the game against the Red Sox, it didn't appear that Oberg's number would be called. That's because Red Sox ace pitcher Chris Sale was absolutely dynamite. He struck out eight of the first nine batters he faced, didn't give up a hit until the top of the fifth and through six innings, he had struck out 14 batters, including the side three times.

Trailing 3-0 heading to the top of the seventh, the Rockies' Nolan Arenado struck for a two-run round-tripper to score Trevor Story, who singled to lead off the inning and that made it 3-2.

In the top of the eighth, Charlie Blackmon belted his own two-run homer off Sox relief pitcher Brandon Workman, who came on after Sale struck out 17 batters through seven innings of work. That home run gave the Rockies a 4-3 lead and Oberg was summoned in from the 'pen.

He first faced Xander Bogaerts, who reached first on an error by the Gold Glover at third, Arenado. Rafael Devers followed and hit a ground ball to Arenado, who forced Bogaerts out at second. Rookie Michael Chavis followed with a single to move Devers to third. Then pinch-hitter Mitch Moreland singled to center to drive in the tying run. Eduardo Nunez followed and hit a hard line drive to second baseman Ryan McMahon, who caught it and fired to first to double up Moreland.

"It was one of those rarities where Nolan made an error and that stuff happens," said Oberg, when asked to reflect upon his inning of work. "I thought I made some good pitches to Devers. He hit a weird two-hopper and we couldn't turn (the double play) but we took the out. I thought I made some good pitches there to Chavis and he caught one off the end of the bat.

"Then I thought I made some good pitches to Moreland. He fouled off some and the last pitch I just missed (my location) and the ball went back over the plate a little bit (and he hit it for a single). Then Nunez hit probably the hardest hit ball of the inning and it was right at somebody (and we got the double play)."

"Obviously I don't want to give up a run in that situation, but I was happy that I was only able to give up one, kept us in the ballgame and we fought back, battled hard and came out with the win. It was pretty exciting."

While the game lasted until the 11th inning with the Rockies coming away with the win behind a big RBI single by Mark Reynolds off Sox reliever Ryan Brasier, Rockies' manager Bud Black was pleased with what he saw out of Oberg on the cold, raw night.

"I thought Scotty threw the ball well," said Black. "He had to go through after the first guy got on (first) the error, but I thought he threw well. He's been pitching very well for us, going to be a contributor (for us) and he's going to be pitching at the back-end of games and help us win."

"The staff encouraged by the way Scotty has been throwing the ball and I'm excited about the season moving forward with him and Oberg, specifically, I thought he did a nice job."
